By Associated Press.
Montreal, Canada, June 1.—The sharp point of an anchor projecting from the bow of the Norwegian collier, Storstad, may explain why that vessel did such terrible damage when it rammed the Empress of Ireland early last Friday in the lower St. Lawrence river. An examination today of the collier's shaft plates revealed the anchor, jammed in a position where it could have ripped through the hull of the Empress like a great can opener.

REBS CASE UNSETTLED

By Associated Press.
Niagara Falls, June 1.—After a two hour conference between the mediators and the American delegates today the question of admitting the Constitutionalists into the negotiations for the settlement of the Mexican problem was still undecided. It was learned, however, that the desire of the United States to have the Constitutionalists heard before a final agreement is signed here has impressed the three mediators and they are taking a more favorable view of it.

After today's conference Justice Lamar dictated the following statement: "We had a conference this morning in which we continued the discussion of a point on which we had not agreed Saturday. The matter is still under discussion, but we found in our talk this morning that we were not so far apart in our construction of certain phases and we are still quite hopeful."

FRENCH CABINET RESIGNS IN BODY

By Associated Press.
Paris, June 1.—The French cabinet premiership of Gaston Bounier has decided to resign. The resignation was taken at a cabinet council today. The chief factor in bringing about the resignation of the government is understood to be the uncertainty of its ability to control a majority in the chamber of deputies where some change in the numerous groups was brought about by the recent general election. Differences are said to have arisen among members of the cabinet concerning financial measures to have been introduced into parliament.

RAIN A RELIEF TO CHOKING HUMANITY

The rain Monday was welcomed by everyone as a great relief from the choking dust and torrid weather of the past two or three weeks.

Saturday and Sunday the dust was almost unbearable, and great clouds were whirled into the air by every passing vehicle, and then the fine particles crept into residences, and into every nook and corner, causing annoyance and much work to get rid of it.

Pastures, wheat fields, corn and oats were greatly enlivened by the Monday shower, and nearly every part of the county shared the rain.

TELLS OF GREAT WORK DONE BY THE Y. M. C. A.

Mr. E. K. Smith, Director of the Coming Campaign, Discusses Value of the Y. M. C. A. to the Individual, the Community and the World, and Gives Insight Into the Inestimable Value of Forward Movement of Humanity in Y. M. C. A. Work.

Giving a clearer and broader insight into the work of the Y. M. C. A. than that possessed by the average citizen, Mr. E. K. Smith, director of the "Clean Up" campaign of the Y. M. C. A., presented the cause at the First Baptist church, Sunday, and as a result his auditors were given new views, and in some instances, new attitudes toward the Y. M. C. A.

For the most part Mr. Smith spoke about the Y. M. C. A. as a whole, but he also discussed the value of the local institution to the individual and to the community.

Following is an abstract of his excellent address:

It is only a few generations since Jonathan Edwards reproved a young man for speaking in the house of God. Since then great movements of Christian Laymen have come into existence such as the Young Men's Christian Association, which had its beginning some twenty years ago in London, and is now reaching to every corner of the world with its definite practical program for the evangelization of all men everywhere. The Student's Volunteer Movement which is crystallizing the altruistic enthusiasm of college students, leading them to invest their lives where they will count for the most in the expansion of God's Kingdom. The Laymen's Missionary Movement which has given laymen a definite share in the world's program of redemption and established a business like systematized support to extension of the Kingdom of God to the uttermost parts of the earth. Church brotherhoods have become a familiar factor in the work of the churches everywhere, furnishing organized practical methods and definite tasks in the building up of the church and the kingdom. The more recent men and Religious Forward Movement which has definitely trained laymen as leaders in the various lines of religious work.

Today the layman is coming into his own, while the minister of a few decades ago was expected to do everything in the nature of church work that was done in his church. The best pastor of the present and future is the man who is able to lead the men of his church into active and definite work for Christ. It is not uncommon now to ask a layman to speak in the house of God. One of the most inspirational services I ever attended was addressed by two laymen who were among the number of Christian business men of America who paid five dollars apiece for the privilege of sitting in the Laymen's Missionary Convention at Chicago. Today it is perfectly natural and in order to invite a layman to speak in behalf of the laymen's work that is worthy of the best energy and brains and time of the Christian business men of the community; a work that aims at the conservation of waste in young manhood.

It is not a new theme that we are to discuss this morning. The question was raised in the earliest family group, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Only a few hundred years ago men were answering in the negative. Those were the dark ages of human history. That doctrine did not produce a Father Damien, that modern saint, who deliberately chose to cast in his life with the lepers on that island of the Pacific that he might minister to the needs of those abandoned people dying of that loathsome disease. * * * * *

This idea that the chief end of man is to work out for himself personal individual salvation and perfection seems reasonable. It is God's plan for the world. It seems only natural then that men should wish to withdraw from temptation and from the contaminating influences of human society that they might preserve the greater freedom from sin and grow pure in thought and life. We have no quarrel with the motive, but question the method.

You who are fathers will remember how carefully you guarded the early years of that first boy of yours. You determined that this little life trusted to your care should be brought up pure, true and free from defilement in thought and speech and deed. You were careful to see that your boy did not play with those boys who would be likely to introduce evil thoughts and speech. You were proud of that little boy when at last he reached the school age and came home the first day, bearing perhaps one of those little gold stars that are given out for encouragement of those who do well. It was no surprise to you that your boy took first rank from the very beginning of his school days, but you were surprised and pained beyond measure at those things which he learned outside the classroom. Those things which you had been carefully guarding from him; then began for you with him the age-long struggle between righteousness and sin.

This is the age of conservation in industry. In the past few years large fortunes numbering into the seven or eight figures or more have been made out of the byproducts of a few years ago. The chief product of one big industry today was the by-product of the days before the automobile was known. A great copper smelter in the west spent over a million of dollars to build a gigantic chimney and fitted with gauze wire screen in such a way as to precipitate the particles of ore that might otherwise pass up with the smoke. The deposit yields a large yearly income.

In industry we are now giving considerable attention to the conservation of human energy, and it is along this line that the big fortunes of the present and the future are to be made. The physical and mental capacity of a human being has not begun to be discovered.

Today we are asking you to consider a matter of far greater importance than the conservation of material things, or even the conservation of human energy. We are asking you to consider the conservation of human souls. There is one magnificent institution at work on that problem as it has been at work gaining in strength and power from the days of Christ, viz., the Church. For ages this institution confined its activities to public meetings and the private ministrations of the clergy in the home. At length it added the Sabbath School for the instruction of its young in the ways of life. Later it added the young people's society for the development of its young people into active Christian work. There were yet a number of things that the church wanted to do for its young men, and the Young Men's Christian Association came into existence.

The founding of this institution is an interesting romance. A young man of seventeen came down from the country to the city. He located in a large dry goods store. He believed that he was his brother's keeper, and immediately began to lead his fellow clerks one by one to the foot of the cross. Mr. Hitchcock, his employer, noticed the changed lives of these young men, and fitted up a small room for them. The result of the earnest lives of these young men so impressed Mr. Hitchcock that he told other merchants about it, until this small beginning of the Young Men's Christian Association spread through all London. It was not long before the news reached this country, and in Boston in 1851, and in Montreal a few days later the same kind of work was established on this side of the Atlantic. It spread rapidly from city to city, until today there are over two thousand in this country.

Now, what is the relation of your boy, of the boy of Fayette county, to this world movement numbering over a half million in its membership, doing business everywhere on this same basis? "The Young Men's Christian Association seeks to unite those young men, who regarding the Lord Jesus Christ as their God and Savior according to the Holy Scriptures, desire to be his Disciples in their doctrine and in their lives, and to associate their efforts for the extension of His Kingdom among young men," a united effort of Christian men to win other men to Christ. Sir George Williams, the founder, lived to know this basis which was established over 60 years ago at Paris reaffirmed and operative in twenty-seven different languages. What is the relation of your boy to this movement?

Perhaps your Washington youth goes out to seek an education in the higher institutions of learning. As he enters college, he is greeted by the representatives of the Young Men's Christian Association. He is made to feel at home. He is helped in locating, and if he desires to earn his way, is given opportunities of work through the instrumentality of the Y. M. C. A. At a recent Alumni Dinner at one of our leading colleges the principal speaker was a returned missionary. The Young Men's Christian Association with the Student's Volunteer Movement have so changed the dominant motives of college students that today they recognize ideals other than foot-ball and athletics.

Perhaps your young man leaves Washington Court House to take a position on a railroad, and he finds Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations with two hundred and fifty branches at junction points all over this country. There are fourteen railroad Young Men's Christian Associations in Ohio alone. A friend of mine went down to the depot at Worcester to take a train. As he passed by the engine he noticed the engineer seated on a baggage-truck with a little worn book and some papers in his hand. After a moment's conversation he discovered that the engineer was preparing his lesson in the correspondence course in Bible Study conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Perhaps your young man goes into one of the industries. Perhaps he located in one of the cotton mill towns of the south. He will find Young Men's Christian Associations there established, and doing a special work for the operatives of these mills. In the steel towns of Pennsylvania Industrial Young Men's Christian Associations are moulding the ideals and character of the men and boys. Among the quarrymen at Proctor, Vt., in the construction camps and in lumber camps all over this country the Young Men's Christian Association is present as an influence making for conservation of higher ideals and nobler manhood.

Perhaps your young man is attracted by the Army or the Navy. In this unnatural and abnormal life in the barracks and on the government battleships he is subject to peculiar temptations due to loneliness, and the unfamiliar temptations of foreign ports. Kipling has well said, "Single men in barracks do not grow into plaster saints." And so at the various army posts and forts of this country are located the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Associations.

Perhaps the young man of Washington Court House goes to some foreign country. In China a doctor came down some two hundred miles to Shanghai with his son, a young man of twenty. He brought him to the Young Men's Christian Association and introduced him to the Secretary. This man was in no way a believer in Christ, but he said, "I have noticed that the young men who go to the Y. M. C. A. are more spiritual than the other young men." All along this street there are door after door of American saloons ready to invite the young men to their destruction. There was reason then for the father's anxiety.

The Washington Court House of tomorrow will be what the boys of today make it. Where do these boys come from? There are three great streams pouring these youths into our cities. One is the stream of young men coming from the country, where three can do today what it required sixteen of our grandfathers to do. So these boys and young men are crowded out from the country home, and must seek employment elsewhere.

The third great stream, and the one most important in Fayette county is the stream of young men and boys from our own homes. These although brought up under the privileges, restraints and safe-guards of home life, need the gymnasium in order to train the muscles and tone up their physical being, and to furnish an outlet for their physical energy, that might otherwise find expression in ways that would lead to trouble and distress. In the gymnasium and in the camps we bring these boys into contact with leaders of the right type, men whose influence will extend throughout their whole lives. We will have evening educational classes to offer opportunities to supplement the school education in such practical subjects as Shorthand, Typewriting, Penmanship, Spelling, Business Arithmetic, Bookkeeping, the gas engine as applied to the automobile, window-dressing and sign writing, Mechanical Drawing, Salesmanship, to prepare young men for greater efficiency in their daily occupations.

In establishing character there is no more important influence than Bible study. Yet there is no advantage in duplicating existing agencies. The province of the Association in a community like this in Bible study is to bring together the leading men of the Churches in conference. Such conferences should result of course in the establishment of classes for the training of teachers of boys' and men's Bible classes, and the training of leaders of boys in various Sunday Schools. It should also result in establishing Bible study for special groups of men and boys such as high school boys, grammar school boys, men in factories, railroad men, men in hotels, boarding houses, etc. Whatever need is discovered should be taken care of under the leadership of the association.

Washington Court House is to be congratulated on this new awakening. The young men of a community are its greatest asset and Washington has decided to look after its assets. Who would not give generously to prevent what he would give a thousand worlds to cure? The business men and citizens of Fayette county during these next few days will say by their generous support that they want this modern, aggressive, scientific type of work here for young men and boys, and this church judging from its past position of leadership in this city will not be behind in the leadership of this enterprise.

FOREST PRESERVE IN SOUTHERN OHIO

By Associated Press.

Columbus, Ohio, June 1.—A huge tree laboratory, forest and bird preserve, covering more than 5000 acres of southern Ohio hills, is contemplated by the State Agricultural Commission. Plans will be worked out by a committee of six agricultural men, appointed by President A. P. Sandler of the commission, at a meeting of foresters held here Wednesday. Homer C. Price, dean of the college of agriculture at Ohio State university and member of the agricultural commission, said today he would call a meeting of the committee within a few weeks to start definite consideration of the proposed forest reservation.

It is probable the general assembly will be asked next winter for an appropriation of about $50,000 for the beginning of this preserve, maintained entirely as a great "object lesson" for Ohio agricultural interests. Trees will be grown on the preserve as a crop. They will be planted, cared for and marketed like any other farm crop. The state of Ohio will take the lead to show that trees are a profitable agricultural product, though the real profits may be reaped by the next or even the second generation.

Ross, Pike and Scioto are the counties in which the forest preserve may

SUPREME COURT OF THE WORLD IS SEEN IN FUTURE

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., June 1.—The Supreme Court of the world ought to be set up and at work within another two years, declared Henry P. MacFarland, of Washington, in an address before the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration here today. Nothing is lacking for this supreme court, which is known as the International Court of Arbitral Justice, except an agreement upon its membership. The Hague Conference of 1907, at which the court was established in name, did not agree upon the composition of the court since the delegates of the smaller powers would not agree to a membership in which they were not directly represented.

Mr. MacFarland declared that he could state positively, although not quote his authority, that a proposition to start the court with nine members has been made and that this proposition promises to be favorably viewed by the governments to which it will be communicated.

He named the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Russia and Japan and the Netherlands as the countries to be represented.

He expressed the hope that the court, once established, should command the respect and regard of the sovereign states of the world as the Supreme Court of the United States under Marshall had won the confidence of the sovereign states of the union.

Another Ocean Disaster

Another awful tragedy of the sea occurred in the early morning hours of last Friday almost in sight of land. Latest reports, which seem to be authentic, are to the effect that nearly one thousand human beings lost their lives when the Empress of Ireland—Canadian Pacific mail steamship—sank in the St. Lawrence river. According to the story related by Captain Kendall of the ill fated liner, every precaution to avoid just such a tragedy as occurred, was being taken by him. In the early morning watches, he sighted, from the bridge of his ill-fated ship, the big Danish collier, which later dealt the death blow. The trained eye of Captain Kendall at the same time noticed the treacherous fog coming out from the shore and, with the intuition of long experience, he realized that the fog would soon envelope both his ship and the Collier with a blanket under which another tragedy of the sea might lurk. Captain Kendall reports that he gave all warning signals and received his answer from the neighboring ship. Instead of recklessly plowing ahead at full speed Captain Kendall stopped his engines, according to his story and drifted in the trough of the sea. This was, under ordinary circumstances, a proper course, but in this particular case it proved to be the course which brought about the disaster. While drifting, with the engines of the big ship idle, the Collier, going full speed ahead, rammed her prow into the side of the liner, tearing a great hole through which the waters of the sea poured and in less than fifteen minutes the sturdy ship was at the bottom of the sea, and a thousand souls had been launched into eternity. Like most of the awful tragedies of that sort, a study of conditions, after the occurrence, show that it could easily have been prevented. It does seem that the law of the high sea should control both vessels on occasions like those existing last Friday morning in the St. Lawrence river. If one vessel stopped her engines, the other should have done the same. The fact that Captain Kendall chose the course which cautioned dictated as the proper one to safeguard the lives in his keeping and the costly vessel and cargo, which was in his control seems to have enabled disaster to overtake him and his ship. Fate plays a cruel game, sometimes, with human beings. The Titanic rushing under full speed crashed into the sharp sides of the ice berg which sent her to the bottom of the sea. Had she been drifted all would have been well. The Empress of Ireland was drifting with her engines stopped and disaster came. Had she been going at full speed ahead, all would have been well. In the Titanic disaster, man was dealing with nature's uncontrollable forces, but in the Empress of Ireland disaster men were dealing with forces of their own creation and under their own control. A common understanding—a common code of navigation honestly obeyed—would have made the disaster of Friday morning impossible. The facts so far made public indicate that some one is answerable for the disaster. Is this tragedy, after all, chargeable to fate or to man?

All Mexico's Gold Not Worth One Brave American

IT'S too bad these Mexicans don't know how to conduct themselves and have respect for a superior nation and its honor. OF COURSE I THINK IT'S BAD BUSINESS FOR A NATION TO MARCH AROUND WITH A CHIP ON ITS SHOULDER, DARING THE OTHER FELLOW TO KNOCK IT OFF. I WOULD BE INCLINED TO LET MY PRIDE SUFFER A LITTLE BEFORE I WOULD PLUNGE OUR COUNTRY INTO WAR WITH MEXICO. WHY, I WOULDN'T SACRIFICE THE LIFE OF ONE BRAVE AMERICAN LAD FOR ALL THE GOLD THERE IS IN MEXICO.

Japan Hasn't Any Desire to Engage In War

By NEWTON W. GILBERT, Former Vice Governor of Philippines

THERE are many reasons and each of them good why there can be no war between the United States and Japan. To begin with, the JAPANESE GOVERNMENT HAS ALL IT CAN DO WITH PROBLEMS RIGHT AT HOME to keep it busy for years to come. So great are those problems that the country could not afford to let any of its energies be spent in another direction. THE TREMENDOUS PROBLEMS EXISTING IN MANCHURIA, FORMOSA AND KOREA WHICH NOW CONFRONT THE JAPANESE PEOPLE CANNOT BE NEGLECTED BY THEM AT THIS TIME. THEN THERE IS THE BIG NATIONAL DEBT OF JAPAN RESULTING FROM THE WAR WITH RUSSIA, WHICH IS ANOTHER EXCELLENT REASON WHY THAT NATION IS IN NO SHAPE TO THINK OF A CONFLICT WITH THIS COUNTRY.

Poetry For Today
PLAYING SAFE.
I have joined this safety movement.
For in a world of strife
It makes for man's improvement
And often saves his life.
If of safety one keeps thinking,
One will dodge a lot of woes;
One will do but little drinking
And will not tell all one knows.
If one's feeling well or poorly
(No, sir, I do not knock!)
One will think of safety surely
And will shun the beer that's bock.
If a man heads well his acts he,
When he travels near and far,
Will avoid the thrilling taxi
And will use a trolley car.
When he thinks he wants to marry,
Though his heart's about to burst,
Through habit he will tarry
And think of "safety first".
Yes, it certainly is splendid,
And it saves men worlds of woe—
Would it could be extended
Back into the long ago!

RAPID DEVELOPMENT OF NAVAL WIRELESS

How Hundreds of Vessels Keep in Close Touch With World Thousands of Miles Away. Wonderful Improvements in Recent Years.—Every War Vessel in Constant Touch With Main Naval Radio Office at Washington.
By Associated Press.
Washington, June 1.—Captain W. H. G. Bullard, U. S. N., who is in charge of the naval radio service, and who has his headquarters under the shadow of the three great steel masts which form the center of the naval wireless system at Arlington, Va., seven miles from Washington, has just presented to the Naval Institute an interesting review of the development of naval wireless telegraphy. The leaps and bounds of this development are brought to pointed notice when it is recalled that during the Spanish-American War such a thing as wireless telegraphy was untried in the United States Navy—or any other navy. It was during 1899, the year after the Spanish-American conflict, that the British navy became the first of all of the naval powers to try the new means of communication upon the three warships, Alexandria, Europa, and Juno. These ships succeeded in communicating up to a distance of 74 miles. Today practically every vessel in the United States Navy is equipped with apparatus for this aerial communication, and it is so successfully operated that there is scarcely a point in the seven seas at which the bigger battleships would be out of touch, through relay, with the three great masts towering over Captain Bullard's headquarters at Arlington. The first trial of wireless on American warships was made late in 1899, directly after the British ships had proved its possibilities. The armored cruiser New York (now the Saratoga), the battleship Massachusetts and the Torpedo Boat Porter were the first to be equipped. At about the same time the Highlands Light Station in New York harbor was established as the first shore station of the naval radio system. Within six years more than 30 ships were equipped, and some fifty shore stations established or projected. Almost every other vessel in the navy was then placed on the list for wireless equipment and the work went forward just as fast as possible. The scheme included both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard, Alaska, the Midway Islands and remote points. Meanwhile, in the spring of 1905, the naval system inaugurated what have proved valuable daily features of its service—flashing the noon time signal, storm warnings and other meteorological observations. In 1907-08 the development of the wireless seem to warrant the erection of high-powered stations at Washington, on the Pacific coast, at Hawaii, Guam, Samoa, and the Philippines, so that wherever it might be, the United States fleet would at all times be in communication with Washington. The success of long distance communication was established during 1908, when the Hawaiian Islands exchanged messages with Farallon Islands, Cal., and later during the cruise of the Atlantic fleet around the world, when messages were received across Central America by Pensacola and Washington. By a system of relays the fleet was in touch with Washington practically every minute during the trip across the Pacific until after New Zealand was reached. At that time also the high powered naval station near here, to be the central point of the Navy Department system, was projected. The station was to have a radius of 3,000 miles both by day and night; to be capable of overcoming interference from static disturbances and to be equipped with apparatus to secure secrecy of operation. Later developments disclosed that this could not be entirely accomplished as to static disturbances and complete secrecy of communication. Congress for the first time took notice of wireless in the Act of June 24, 1910, which was amended by the Act of July 23, 1912. The Titanic disaster of April 1912 riveted the attention of lawmakers anew to the necessity of government control over radio apparatus and its operation. Further laws were passed, and the President proclaimed the Berlin Wireless Convention, since succeeded by the London Wireless Convention, establishing general rules for wireless as to ships throughout the world. Some of the later extensions of wireless were the establishment of the station on the ground of the American Legation at Pekin, China, for communication between officials of the United States Legation and vessels of the Asiatic Fleet, and the Panama Canal station. The latter is to be unusually powerful, with three 600-foot steel towers for the support of the antennae. It is erected half way across the Isthmus near San Pablo. The name given to it, Darien, is the name of the early explorers of that region. The Mexican trouble led to further extension to take the place of interrupted land lines and for exchange with the ships. Isabel, Texas, near the mouth of the Rio Grande, was chosen as the central point of operation on the Atlantic side, and San Diego on the Pacific side. There are now 48 naval shore stations, those at outside points being three along the Panama Canal, one at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; one at San Juan, Porto Rico; seven in Alaska and outlying islands; two in the Philippines; one at Hawaii; one at Guam and one at Pekin, China, with other projected stations in Samoa and elsewhere rapidly nearing completion. The chief work of the naval stations is to keep the Navy Department in connection with its ships at sea, either by direct or relayed messages. This service extends to all bureaus, offices and divisions of the Navy Department, those in command of navy yards and stations, and to officers of fleets, divisions and ships. The transmission of time signals has also developed to great importance for war and merchant ships to avoid error in the ships chronometer, etc. Signals from Arlington are sent out every day in the year, twice a day, at noon and at 10 p. m., 75th Meridian time. Time signals are now sent out on the Atlantic coast only through the radio stations at Arlington, Key West and New Orleans. On the Pacific coast, the time signals are sent to sea through the wireless stations at Mare Island, Eureka and San Diego in California, and at North Head, in Washington. The daily weather reports, and storm warnings, are sent from Arlington and Key West a few minutes after the ten o'clock time signal at night, but important storm warnings are sent whenever necessary. Warnings of icebergs and derelicts are sent to sea from the Arlington station following the time signal and weather reports. At such times ships are listening on the long wave of Arlington, 2,500 meters, and their receiving circuits are tuned to receive the ice or derelict report. Incoming ships are compelled, under the London Safety Convention, to report information concerning ice and derelicts; this goes through the Hydrographic Offices to the Arlington station, and then seaward and to other stations. This information being of an urgent character—icebergs, derelicts, cyclones and typhoons—is sent under a special signal, called the safety signal, repeated at short intervals, ten times at full power—(T T T). On receiving this all radio stations are required to keep silent, in order to let the danger warnings go broadcast. More recent developments of the naval wireless work are the fog signals and direction finders, by which the dangers attending fogs are overcome, and the location and direction of ships in reference to shore stations are established; also a rapid development of commercial work by which the general public and the press are allowed to use the wireless equipment aboard warships and at shore stations, on payment of land and sea charges. These charges are regulated under the London Convention, and the amounts collected by naval coast or ship stations are turned into the treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM IS BEAUTIFUL AND IMPRESSIVE

Great Crowd Pays Tribute to the Soldier Dead, and Show Deep Respect for the Gallant Veterans Who Take Part in Services—Stirring Address Forms Part of Inspiring Program—Attendance Larger Than Usual.

Memorial day in Washington Court House has ever been a day of more than passing importance and has always been observed with a sincerity and thoroughness unusual, but the commemoration of the brave deeds of the nation's heroes here Saturday totally eclipsed any like event in recent years.

With the solemn tolling of many city bells the observance of this day so dear to the hearts of the few surviving "boys in blue" began, and throughout the entire program, which continued all afternoon, not once did the patriotic interest of the hundreds of participants wane.

The exercises opened with a short program in Memorial Hall preceding the march to the cemetery, which was especially touching. Mr. Frank Allen was chairman and the program was at once eloquent and thrilling in its tender reference to the time honored veterans who occupied a special section of the hall.

The address of the afternoon by the Rev. Frederick E. Ross of the Grace church, a splendid memorial tribute, brought tears of patriotism to many eyes.

The reading of "Logan's General Order No. 29" by Miss Emily Tanzev was greeted by a warm burst of applause which was repeated when Miss Van Winkle delivered the famous Gettysburg address by President Lincoln.

Another prominent and stirring feature of the program was the rendition of the old war songs including "America," "The Old Flag Never Touched the Ground," and "The Star Spangled Banner," by a quartette composed of Mrs. Mary Goldsberry Burgett, Miss Ada Woodward, Messrs Roscoe Kibler and Walter Sprenger.

The march to the cemetery and the services there constituted perhaps the most stirring and successful affair of its kind in many years. Never before have the veterans turned out in such large numbers and this was due to the foresight and kindness of the Sons of Veterans who secured thirty-five automobiles to transfer the one hundred and fifty or more old warriors to the cemetery.

First in line of march came Company M, of the Ohio National Guards and then, in a body, afoot, the Col. B. H. Millikan camp, Sons of Veterans, followed by beautiful flower floats and, in bodies immediately after, the Womens Relief Corps and the Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R. Then came the white haired veterans, not tired, dusty and struggling painfully along afoot as in former years, but comfortably esconced in automobiles provided by kind citizens. After the veterans came a long line of citizens.

The services at the cemetery can be fully and accurately described in the one word—beautiful. Never before has Washington cemetery presented such a gorgeous appearance dressed, as it was, in a wealth of flowers and greenery.

Immediately on arrival of the marchers, began the decoration of the graves and then came the impressive cenotaph service at the base of the G. A. R. monument by the Women's Relief Corps, conducted by Commander Milton Hyer, Chaplain William Davenport and Officer of the Day Charles McCrea. The exercise closed with a salute by Company M and the sounding of the taps.

Returning from the cemetery the participating organizations and individuals were served with welcome refreshments by the Ladies' Circle at Memorial hall.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEMORIAL.

A prelude to the Memorial Day services, beautiful in its tender tribute of remembrance, was the Epworth League Memorial of Sunday night, at Grace church.

The National colors were marked in evidence and great clusters of pink and white peonies completed the effective decoration.

Mrs. Mabel Calvert Blessing played the national airs best loved by the "boys of '61," as the G. A. R. organizations marched in, and were comfortably seated by the Daughters of Veterans, acting as the evening's ushers.

Sad beyond words was "the long roll call," introduced for the first time by Comrade Wm. Davenport, and the martial music which followed later in the program.

Mr. Gilbert Adams, president of the league, gave a cordial address of welcome and the Ladies' quartet, Misses Parrett, Teters, Cleaveland and Larimer, added much to the pleasure of the evening in beautiful numbers.

Of great pathos and beauty was Miss Luella Riley's reading, "Comrades, You Are Facing the Setting of the Sun."

Rev. P. E. Ross delivered an address which made strong appeal to the comrades, touching upon phases of the war time and drawing from them lessons for today's patriotism.

Mrs. Blessing presided at the organ throughout the program.

Chaplain Near offered the prayer of the evening.

The program was in charge of Miss Ethel Calvert, chairman.

BORDERING UPON CENTURY MARK

Mrs. Elias Johnson, belonging to one of the old Fayette county families, celebrated her ninetieth birthday May 29th, 1914, at her present home in Leesburg.

Mrs. Johnson was born on the farm in Concord township, this county, now owned by Joe E. Mark, of this city, it being the home farm of the late Joseph Mark, who died in 1886. Born and reared in the days of Fayette's formative history, growing up with the progress of the country and rounding out her days in the comforts and pleasures of its development and prosperity, Mrs. Johnson added much to the interest of the day with her early reminiscence.

Of the two sisters and three brothers living, four were present to enjoy the occasion—Mr. Henry Mark, Mr. Lewis Mark, Mrs. Mary S. Stafford, Mrs. Hulda Patton living in this county. One brother, Anthony W. Mark, residing in Illinois, was unable to be present because of his advanced age.

The ages of the six brothers and sisters on May 29, 1914, wanted but seven and one-half days of the remarkable average of 82 years. The youngest is 73 years, and the oldest the subject of this sketch, now in the last decade of the century.

The statement that they were all in remarkably good health was fully substantiated by the fact that they gave able assistance in relieving the table of the great burden of delicious eatables that were taxing its strength.

Mrs. Johnson's children are scattered from Maryland to California.

One son, Horace, of Memphis, Tenn., and two daughters, of Cumberland, Md., were present. Two sons in California were not able to attend.

A large circle of relatives and friends joined with Mrs. Johnson and her family and spent the day in a way most pleasurable.

CHANGE OF TIME CAUSES CONFUSION

In the southern part of the city the school children have become accustomed to hurrying off to school when the D. T. & I. morning train passed up—this being the signal for a general stampede toward school.

Monday morning the new time card went into effect and the morning train, instead of arriving at 7:53, arrived at 7:34 a. m., and the children began a hurried rush for school, all declaring the clocks in that part of the city were wrong, as they showed the train at least 20 minutes early, according to old schedule.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT BLOOMINGBURG

A crowd somewhat smaller than usual attended the Bloomingburg memorial services, Saturday afternoon, the dust making travel too disagreeable for many to attend, and the closed road north of Bloomingburg causing many to remain at home rather than take a round-about way to reach Bloomingburg.

Very appropriate services were held at the church, where Rev. Thomas delivered the memorial address. The veterans of Miriam Judy Post then marched to the cemetery, led by the Bloomingburg band, where the usual services were held.

LAD PAINFULLY INJURES HIS EYE

Carl, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Minnick, of Staunton, nearly lost the sight of one eye Saturday by falling against his father's automobile and striking his head against a pin projecting from a part of the machine.

The pin penetrated deep into the eye socket above the eye, but fortunately did not injure the sight. Blood poured from the wound and covered the lad's face, giving his parents a bad scare. The child was brought to this city and the wound was sewed up.

LIGHTNING STRIKES D. R. JACOBS RESIDENCE

Monday morning a bolt of lightning struck the residence of D. R. Jacobs on South Hinde street, scattering brick, mortar and shingles in all directions, some of the brick being hurled a distance of 75 feet from the house.

The bolt passed down the flue, hurling grime into every room, and badly shocking Mrs. Jacobs, who was rendered very ill for some little time. For quite a while after the shock she was paralyzed in the right lower limb.

Several persons in the immediate vicinity were slightly stunned by the heavy bolt.

INFANT STRUCK BY MOTORCYCLE

Little Walter Kane, 4-year-old son of John Kane, second-hand dealer, miraculously escaped death when struck by a motorcycle on Court street in front of the Gossard Jewelry store about noon Sunday.

The child had started to cross the street and the motorist seeing him slowed down and turned to avoid him. As he did so the frightened little fellow turned in the same direction, thinking to avoid the cyclist. The result was that the motorcycle, which by this time was running very slowly, struck the child, knocking him down, and the front wheel passed over him.

He was picked up and carried to his home more frightened than injured, suffering nothing more serious than slight abrasions of the forehead and the right arm.

RABID DOG BITES THREE ALL WILL TAKE TREATMENT

Two Small Children and One Woman Attacked and Bitten by Mad Dog Near Octa—The State Board of Health Pronounces Case Hydrophobia—So-called "Mad Stone" May be Used by One of the Victims

As a result of being attacked and bitten by a dog which was later declared to be suffering from the dreaded rabies, three persons in the Octa neighborhood are to take the Pasteur treatment to prevent the disease from fastening its death-hold upon them.

The dog, a small black animal, owned by Mrs. Lucy Hodge, of Octa, had been acting strangely for several days, beginning last week, and later it attacked and wounded little six-year-old Flossie Yarger, a five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Rhoades, and Mrs. Myrtle Archhart.

The two children were bitten in the face, while Mrs. Archhart was slightly wounded on one foot.

It was then that George Yarger killed the brute, and, being anxious to learn whether the dog had hydrophobia, sent the head to proper authorities at Columbus and Saturday report came back that the brute had been suffering from a very bad form of the disease.

Arrangements were made at once to administer the Pasteur serum treatment to those bitten, and Dr. Adams, of Milledgeville, has the work in charge.

Mrs. Archhart had planned to take treatment at Jamestown, where a man named Harvey Smith possesses what is known as a "mad stone", but she may forego this and take the serum treatment.

It is claimed the "mad stone" has a number of cures to its credit.

In addition to biting the three persons, the dog is said to have bitten a number of animals in the neighborhood.

It is believed that the dog was bitten by a rabid animal which passed through the Octa neighborhood several weeks ago.

NEW MOTOR CARS FAIL TO ARRIVE

The D. T. & I. railroad officials were much disappointed, Monday, in not being able to place their new motor cars in commission on the road owing to the fact that they went astray on their way to the point of delivery, and it was necessary to send a tracer after them.

However, the new schedule went into effect, with the exception of cars No. 11 and 16, due at 12:53 and 4:03, which are cancelled until the new cars arrive, which is expected to be within the next two or three days.

Until further notice, the time card will be: Northbound—7:34 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. South-bound—9:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

When the new cars are put on Nos. 11, 15, 12 and 16 will stop on signal at Locust Grove, Thorps, Fayette, Ghormleys and New Salem.

IMPORTANT CHANGE OF TIME ON B. & O.

Several changes have been made in the time table of the B. & O. Railroad, effective now.

Both early morning trains now reach here at 5:05 o'clock. The two evening trains, Nos. 107 and 108 are due here at 6:08 o'clock. East bound No. 104 is due at 10:42 and 106 is due at 10:53.

This schedule will, in all probability, remain unchanged throughout the summer.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Of great dignity and impressive-ness were the Baccalaureate services held in Grace church Sunday night. The capacity of the immense church was taxed to its utmost long before the class of 1914 in collegiate cap and gown entered.

Supt. Wm. McClain and Principal Probasco headed the procession of graduates and following came the High school faculty and members of the Board of Education.

The chancel and altar were superbly decorated in palms, canterberry bells and daisies, introducing the class colors of royal purple and silver gray. The Buck florists had the decorating in charge.

Rev. Hostetler opened the services with prayer and the choir furnished special music, including a beautiful anthem, with solo by Miss Gardner. Mr. Kneisley's violin solo and organ solos by Miss Light.

Rev. Frederick E. Ross delivered a Baccalaureate address that was universally pronounced one of the most eloquent and inspiring ever delivered to a local graduating class.

Taking as his theme, "Training for Victory," the minister introduced his discourse by explanation of the unusual text, "Let not him that putteth on his armor boast as he that putteth it off." Kings 20:11.

Life is a warfare. There is a goal to be won, a victory to be achieved.

It is imperative that you should clearly see the true end and object of life. That end is not wealth, honor or position. It is character. Without character all else is unavailing.

The mere perception, however, of the object of life is not enough. Training is essential to victory. This training implies:

First. Information or knowledge. The trained youth must know, and he must have an enthusiasm for knowledge.

Every student should know his country's history, the facts and their relation, the forces and their evolution. In this age of slang and exaggeration, good language should be regarded as an accomplishment. Mathematics, science and literature—these are tempting fields to the alert mind. Ignorance today is a sin. If you are a candidate for success you must know.

Interpretation is another element in training. It is one thing to know the facts; another to know the meaning of the facts.

Application is next. If Watt, having discovered the power of steam, had not applied his discovery to mining, manufacturing and transportation, the world would be much poorer. So with all progress in invention.

MISS DEE SMILEY IN CABARET SINGING

MISSION AT ST. COLMAN'S CHURCH

A week's mission conducted by Rev. J. R. Rosswinkle, S. J., of Chicago, opened Sunday at St. Colman's church, of which Rev. Thos. Fogarty is pastor. In the introductory sermon, a lucid explanation of the meaning, scope and purpose of a Catholic mission was given. The question was pointedly put as propounded by the Redeemer, "What does it profit a man to gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his own soul? What exchange can a man give for his soul?" The answer to this all important question, said the missionary, would form the leading thought of all his discourses.

A very large audience greeted him at the evening service, when the question, "Whence, why and whither," involving man's origin, the purpose of his existence here on earth, and his final destiny, formed the topic of his instructive sermon. The old Catholic custom of congregational singing was successfully revived and enthusiastically taken up by all present. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to any and all services.

WILL SOON BEGIN LAYING THE BRICK

Within a short time the work of laying the brick on the Bloomingburg and Midway pike, immediately north of Bloomingburg, will be under way, and it will require very little time to complete the work when once the paving is actually started.

Most of the grading has been done, and the concrete curbs have been constructed. The road is closed to all vehicles, and persons desiring to reach Bloomingburg from the north must leave the main road north of Wm. Parkers' residence, and cross over to the Danville pike, coming out at Rodgers' Park and thence to Bloomingburg.

Democratic Solons Aroused By Roosevelt's Statement.

WILSON AIDED UNWITTINGLY

Leaders of All Shades of Political Belief of the Opinion That the Colonel's Criticisms Will Hasten Action On Pending Trust Measures. What Politicians Say of the Oyster Bay Sage's Pronouncement.

Washington, June 1.—According to political leaders the statement issued Saturday by Colonel Roosevelt rendered President Wilson a service. They say it will force the Democrats to put through the program for anti-trust legislation, as President Wilson desires, at this session of congress. Thus the Roosevelt broadside is likely to diminish the troubles of the business world.

Republicans as well as Democrats regard Colonel Roosevelt's statement as indicating a tendency to get 'n line with Republican policies. He attacked in a general way those things that the Republicans have been attacking. With a common point of attack Colonel Roosevelt's followers and the Republicans will soon find themselves co-operating politically. The tendency is in that direction and the coalition is inevitable, in the opinion of politicians here.

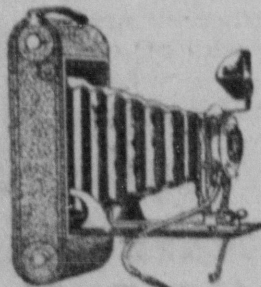

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, and joint author with Representative Underwood of the tariff law, asked to be excused from making a formal statement on the Roosevelt statement. Senator Simmons said he did not believe it required an answer and intimated that he thought it rather innocuous and hardly up to the colonel's average in such matters.

One of the most interesting comments on the Roosevelt statement was by Senator Borah of Idaho. "I am very glad," said he, "to see Colonel Roosevelt take up with his usual vigor and decisiveness the fight for Republican policies and principles. The logic of his statement is that there must be united action to relieve the country from conditions he describes and terminate the policies which he criticizes. I am exceedingly pleased to see him in the fight."

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Democrat, said: "I think Colonel Roosevelt's statement answers itself in a sense. He charges that the Democratic tariff has failed to benefit the people. It had the support of members of his own party. If it fails as a revenue producer or in other ways, Progressives must share some of the blame. Mr. Roosevelt has been in the United States for 10 days, after an absence of about nine months. He is hardly in a position to say of his knowledge that business is bad. Business is bad, but it is improving."

The Bull Mooseers in congress would have liked the colonel's statement better if he had made it more definite

KILLS WATCHMAN

New York, June 1.—Michael Krepa, 34, a watchman at the Robert Gair company's plant, Brooklyn, was found murdered in the office of the factory. The police arrested Thomas Tarry, 24, formerly employed as a watchman by the company, whom Krepa caused to be discharged. Tarry made a confession he had killed Krepa; that he had tried to find the opportunity to do it several times before, but had never succeeded.

DISAPPOINTED SWAIN USES DYNAMITE

Halifax, N. S., June 1.—Because Miss Mielie Robinson, a young woman to whom Thomas Reilly was paying attention, would not respond to his appeal to come to the front door of her home and see him, he exploded a stick of dynamite. The explosion blew in the front of the house and smashed the windows in two blocks. The dynamite had a time fuse and he was able to get out of danger. Reilly was arrested.

REBEL LEADER IS MIXING THINGS

Carranza Selects a Provisional Government For Mexico.

PLACES HIMSELF AT THE HEAD

Will Have the Protection of Five Thousand Troops in Saltillo, the Provisional Capital, and Will Be in Line to Take Up the Task of Ruling Mexico When the Huerta Government Has Been Removed.

Torreon, Mexico, June 1.—To forestall action by the peace mediators at Niagara Falls, in selecting a provisional government for Mexico, General Carranza virtually assumed the position of provisional president and began the work of selecting his cabinet.

Advices to this effect were received here from Durango, and also that Carranza was to leave Durango for Saltillo to formally establish a provisional government. The new capital will have the protection of nearly 5,000 troops of the army of General Pablo Gonzales, who has transferred his army from Monterey to Saltillo. He will protect Saltillo, while it remains the provisional capital, and will send detachments of troops to garrison the smaller towns in that vicinity, while Villa's main army is conducting the campaign against Zacatecas and San Luis Potosi. When the rebel army moves upon Mexico City, General Gonzales and his army will escort the provisional president and his cabinet to the permanent capital.

This action by the rebels, it is claimed, puts them in line to be entrusted by the mediators with the task of governing Mexico after the Huerta government has been removed and until a new government can be chosen by elective method.

Carranza already has selected a portion of his cabinet and has decided upon Roberto Pesuria, formerly rebel diplomatic agent at Washington, to be governor of the federal district,

GERMAN BOATS MUST PAY FINE

Vera Cruz, Mexico, June 1.—The Hamburg-American line steamships Ypiranga and Bavaria did not sail as expected, owing to the refusal of the American port authorities to accept a bond which would cover the fines imposed upon the two vessels for landing arms at Puerto Mexico for the Huerta administration. The fines imposed upon the two vessels amount to over 1,000,000 pesos. The amount assessed against the Ypiranga is $94,625 pesos. The captains of the two vessels were anxious to get away and the agents were insistent that the bond be accepted, but the authorities declared that this could not be done on Sunday.

For scaling fish a new wire brush has been invented, the wires being surrounded by a guard to prevent the scales flying in all directions.

in which is Mexico City. Zubaran Capmany, who now is representing Carranza in Washington, is to be one of the cabinet, and later will be named as ambassador to the United States. Senor Luis Cabrera is to be minister of foreign relations, and has been ordered by Carranza to proceed to Saltillo at once. He is now in New York. Felipe Angeles is to be retained in the cabinet, probably as minister of war, and Ferdinand I. Calderon, who now is at the head of the Liberal party in Mexico, is to be given a cabinet portfolio.

REBELS MUST COME ACROSS

Washington, June 1.—Officials of the administration, though in communication with American representatives at the peace conference, declined to discuss their attitude as to reception of representatives of Carranza in the mediation negotiations, but it was again declared that this government still was firmly of the mind that no protocol which would outline terms of settlement of the general political affairs of Mexico should be signed until agents of General Carranza had been given an opportunity to participate in the deliberations.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan held a brief conference, and it is understood communications bearing on the late developments at Niagara Falls were forwarded to Commissioners Lamar and Lehman. Like all other communications of this character, they were held strictly in confidence. The belief in official circles here, however, was that the publication of the Carranza note to the South American envoys and the answer of the mediators thereto might be delayed for some days, pending further efforts on the part of this government to bring influence to bear which would assure some sort of representation at Niagara Falls of the Constitutionalist movement.

MARINES DROWNED

Mexico City, June 1.—Several American marines from the cruiser Albany were drowned while they were attempting to land in the port of Arista, state of Oaxaca. The boat in which they were attempting to reach the shore was caught in a heavy sea and sank. Mexicans put out from the shore and rescued most of the men, but several were lost. Those who were rescued were sent under a heavy guard to Salina Cruz, where they were released and delivered to the commander of the Albany.

DRINK AND SHOOT

Torreon, Mexico, June 1.—When the food did not suit him, General Mariano Severin, chief of the rebel artillery in Villa's army, shot up a restaurant here conducted by an American negro named Lewis. He wanted to shoot Lewis, but the negro fled. The incident caused a riot which required the presence of a special detail of troops to put it down. General Severin, it is claimed, had been drinking heavily. The restaurant was wrecked.

DEATH WINS

Canton, O., June 1.—Joseph Willis, 20, a young pharmacist, was drowned at Meyers Lake, an amusement park here, when a canoe in which he was riding capsized. Joseph Fitzgerald, 15, also was in the boat when it turned over. Willis, although unable to swim, assisted the younger boy to stay above the water until several other canoes in the vicinity could dart to the rescue. Willis then sank.

FIREMEN HURT

Akron, O., June 1.—The plant of the Caruthers-Terry Preserving company was destroyed by fire with a loss of $100,000. The origin is not known. Captain Austin Stair, Anthony Weerens and Charles Jost, firemen, fell through a window into the burning building and narrowly escaped death. They were only slightly injured.

BATHER DROWNS

Lancaster, O., June 1.—Boasting of his prowess as a swimmer to four young boys already in the water, Henry Foust, 22, was drowned when he jumped fully clothed into the Hocking river, two miles south of Sugar Grove. The body was recovered by a rescue party two hours later.

SCIENTIST'S CLAIM

Florence, June 1.—SIGNOR UVI, the discoverer of the X and M rays, says collisions between vessels on account of fog can be made impossible by his F rays. He claims that a ship with his apparatus can determine the direction and distance within 13 miles of another ship, although the latter is invisible.

HATCHERY BURNS

Sandusky, O., June 1.—The Ohio state fish hatchery at Put-In-Bay was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The loss is estimated by Superintendent Frank Miller at $20,000. The last of the spring hatch of white-fish and bass was removed 10 days ago.

5 TRAINMEN ARE KILLED

Locomotive Jumps the Track and Turns Over.

Connellsville, Pa., June 1.—Five trainmen were killed and two perhaps fatally injured when a passenger locomotive on the Connellsville division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was derailed at Cooks Mills, east of here. The locomotive was running light. An extra freight crew had boarded the engine to ride down the line in order to relieve a crew whose working time had expired. In some unknown manner the engine jumped from the rails and the men were scalded.

The engine turned completely over. The dead: H. V. Hughes, engineer, Pittsburg; H. S. Lloyd, flagman, Connellsville; Guy W. Dean, brakeman, Cumberland; Harry Riser, engineer, South Cumberland; C. C. Eyster, conductor, Myersdale.

TURBULENT AGITATORS

Berkman and Others Attempt to Speak at Rockefeller's Home.

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 1.—Fifteen agitators are in jail and Andrew Berkman has been sent back to New York as the result of Berkman and others insisting on making public addresses.

After the arrest of Becky Edelson, Arthur Caron, Edward Plunkett, the Cornell graduate, the big Swede and eight others, Berkman, David Sullivan and 20 others arrived in Tarrytown and immediately started out to continue the fight for free speech in this village, which the agitator's chose to call John D. Rockefeller's town. Berkman's gang walked to Fountain square and one of the members got a box and started to talk. He was arrested. He subsequently promised to get out of town and was allowed to go.

In the meantime Sullivan and Berkman, who was accompanied by a girl known as "Helen of Troy," but who gave her name as Helen Harris, walked around the town followed by a crowd of 500. Berkman and Sullivan kept protesting to the police that they had the right to free speech and they returned to Fountain square and Berkman tried to talk again. The police rushed them and they were driven over into North Tarrytown. Sullivan, Vellocello and another man put up a fight and were arrested.

New York, June 1.—William English Walling, Socialist author, in an address in the Berkley theater denounced Morris Hilquit, national chairman of the Socialist party, before Bouck Whites congregation. He called upon Hilquit to get out of the party. Hilquit has been quoted as saying that such persons as Upton Sinclair and Bouck White ought to be put out of the Socialist party as punishment for "silent mourning" in front of the Standard Oil offices and the attempt to speak in the Calvary Baptist church, of which the Rockefellerers are members.

OUR NATIONAL GAME.

Baseball as Now Played Is Essentially American in Origin.

Some authorities trace baseball to an old English ball game called "rounders," which dated from the eighteenth century. "Rounders" was played in an open field marked out by a five sided figure, the points being called bases, first to fourth and home bases. The "feeder" (modern pitcher) stood in the middle of the pentagon; the batsman ran the bases and scored a run if he made the circuit without being put out, but he was retired if a hit ball was caught on the fly or on the first bounce or when he was struck out by having the ball thrown at him while running the bases.

"Rounders" was played in this country before the Revolutionary war and baseball possibly was an outgrowth of it, but if so it was a long time coming. The game as now played is essentially of American origin, through the different stages of two old cat, three old cat, four old cat, town ball and bull pen.

The Washington Baseball club, the first known, was formed in New York in 1843, and the first regular code of rules was drawn up in 1845 by the Knickerbocker Baseball club of New York. The first national association was organized in 1853, and the first convention of baseball financiers and managers was held in Philadelphia in 1867, about 500 organizations being represented.—Philadelphia Press.

A curious proof of how tenaciously paganism held its ground for some generations after the majority of the people had become Christians is found in a Gaelic version of the Lord's Prayer, which up to a very recent period existed in parts of Cork and Kerry. Instead of "Lead us not into temptation," "Na Leit sinn a ndraoidbeach" was said, meaning "Allow us not into Druidism."—London Times.

BOAT ARRIVES AT MONTREAL

Captain Declines to Make Statement Concerning the Disaster, Saying His Company Had Arranged to Do That—Vessel Detained Under a Writ Claiming Heavy Damages. Extent of Her Injuries.

Montreal, June 1.—With the Norwegian flag flying half-mast at her stern the collier Storstad came into port under her own steam. She was badly damaged about the bows, but so far as could be seen this did not extend to more than 20 feet from the stem. That the impact with the Empress of Ireland had been terrific was evident by the way the vessel's stern was twisted to port, the hawser pole completely smashed, plates cracked, rivets twisted or missing, while the heavy anchor had evidently been driven back several feet into the bows.

In anticipation of the arrival of the collier, W. Simpson Walker, registrar of the admiralty court, was instructed by solicitors for the Canadian Pacific railroad to issue documents for the attachment of the Storstad for damages by collision to the extent of $1,000,000. This amount can be further augmented. The warrant was executed by Acting Deputy Sheriff Marston. It was nailed to the mast, accompanied by a summons. The vessel can not be moved without the deposit of bail. Neither the captain or officers made any statement.

Captain Anderson said he could make no statement as the officials of the Dominion Coal company, the charterers of the boat, had arranged to do that. It was declared by seamen who were persuaded to tell something of the collision, though they had been warned by their officers not to talk to newspaper men, that Captain Anderson was off duty at the time of the accident, that the ship had been ordered astern before it struck the Empress a glancing blow, and that 350 people were saved by the crew of the Storstad.

G. Stanton, one of the executives of the marine department of the Canadian Pacific, said: "Captain Kendall has been exonerated by the Canadian Pacific railway for any blame connected with the disaster." When W. B. Webster, general agent of the line, heard of this remark, he insisted that the officials of the company had made no statement, and that it was not possible that the company could have exonerated anyone. He said that Captain Kendall had not made a statement to any official of the company.

The picture is a green and grey scheme, showing a smiling countryside, with a girl and two white goats standing near a tree. Five times previously Mr. Cowley has sent pictures to the Academy. Thrice he has been rejected, while on the other two occasions he was among those whose work was "crowded out."

He is entirely self-taught, and only recently took first lessons in technique. Barbering, he explains, is an annoyance.

"But I can't run the old trade down," he added, "for it has been a good friend to me. Barbering gave me a splendid opportunity of studying types of faces, which I used in my pictures. And, besides, I sold a good many to customers for a few shillings."

Mr. Cowley, who is still in his thirties, prefers to regard himself primarily as an animal painter, and he has the use of a private zoo in Kent for his models.

OUR WORD "GARDEN."

In the Old Anglo-Saxon It Meant Private Inclosed Land.

We speak so freely and often of a "garden," assuming that there is some well defined common use of that word even among the authorities on gardening subjects. But the fact is that it has reached mighty elastic limits in their writings and speech and can be taken to mean anything from the enormous private parks and estates to the tin can glories of a back yard.

The word garden is from the old Anglo-Saxon root "gyrden," meaning an inclosure. At that time, due to the uncertain character of community life, it was either inclosed within fortifications or left unprotected and exposed without. This private inclosed land was the garden of that time. That is the meaning of garden in the Song of Solomon.

Gradually the sense of the word has changed to cover those parts of the land devoted to the cultivation of plants either for pleasure or for use; thus, we have the vegetable or fruit garden, and on the other hand, the wall, water or rose garden, etc.

Liberty Hyde Bailey defines a garden as "the personal part of an estate, that area which is most intimately associated with the private life of the home."

Whatever the sense in which it is used, the word "garden" always succeeds in carrying with it an atmosphere of romance and beauty, which countless ages of use cannot dim.—Philadelphia Record.

HUMAN INSTINCT.

More Potent at Times Than Reason in Directing Our Actions.

That even in man instinct is sometimes stronger than reason is illustrated by these two cases:

There had been shipped on a Mississippi river steamer a box with a glass cover, containing a very active rattlesnake. Whenever any one approached the box the serpent would strike the cover. The owner of the reptile challenged any one to hold his finger on the glass and let the rattler strike at it. There was no danger, and it seemed an easy thing to do. First one and then another tried it, but when the snake gave its vicious spring the finger was invariably drawn back with a jerk. Instinct was stronger than reason and will combined.

A young man in Paris had lost his last sou at the gambling table. Not only was he without means, but he had lost a large sum belonging to his employer. He started for the Seine with the intention of drowning himself. On the way there was a great commotion, caused by the escape of a lion from a strolling menagerie. The animal came galloping down the street, and people fled in every direction.

Instantly the man who was seeking death climbed a lamp post and clung to the top of it, trembling in every limb. When the animal was captured and the danger was over he proceeded to the river and plunged in.—Washington Star.

The Last of Five Points.

The Five Points Mission House is to give way to the development of downtown New York, its site being needed for the proposed civic center and county courthouse. To the present generation its passing will doubtless be of less concern than the closing of the Astor House rotunda lunch counter, but for New Yorkers of older growth it possessed romantic associations both as a haven of righteousness in what was once the wickedest spot in New York, if not in the world, and because of its pioneer work of social reclamation.—New York World.

ATHLETICS LOSE 2 CLOSE GAMES

Two games which should have gone to Washington, were capped off by the Cincinnati Elmwoods Saturday and Sunday afternoons in a two days' tournament at Athletic park. Large crowds saw both games.

Saturday afternoon the Elmwoods won in a 6 to 5 game, principally through infield weakness of the Athletics, and only the sure and steady twirling of Reno prevented a massacre. In the eighth, with a chance to even up, the batting list weakened and the opportunity slipped through.

In Sunday's game the Athletics had the score cinched, but allowed the visitors a complete walkaway. Cotterill pitched a good game until the ninth, when his nervousness caused him to walk two men. An error put another batsman at first, filling the bases, and when Reno went in the batsman before him had three balls and one strike. The ball had started rolling and all the art of the old timer was useless. When the batsman walked, forcing in a run, the Athletics went to pieces, the visitors pushing over four men, bringing the former score of 4 to 3, favoring Washington, up to 7 to 4 in their own favor.

Next Sunday's game will be with the Bates Pirates, formerly the Shullman's of Columbus.

The box scores of Saturday's and Sunday's games are as follows:

SUNDAY SCHOOLS PLAN FOR BIG FOURTH OF JULY PICNIC

Will be One of Feature Outing Events of the Season—Between 7,000 and 10,000 Persons Expected To Attend—Committee Will Endeavor to Secure Services of Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, as Speaker.

Between seven and ten thousands, including persons from all parts of Fayette county and many from a distance, are expected to participate in the big Fourth of July picnic to be held under the auspices of the Fayette county Sunday schools and which, if it is anticipated, will be one of the most elaborate outings of the summer in Washington.

At a recent meeting an executive committee was created which in turn appointed some ten or twelve auxiliary committees and all of these are now busily at work preparing for the picnic.

The committee on speakers will make an effort to secure for this day William Jennings Bryan to entertain Fayette countians with his matchless oratory.

The committee on grounds is considering several sites but it is probable that the fair grounds will be secured.

The promoters of the outing will consult the school superintendents, principals and teachers of the county with a view to securing the cooperation of all the schools and to induce them, if possible, to attend the picnic in representative bodies.

One of the chief features of the occasion will be an athletic tournament in the afternoon, including all manner of athletic events for tropies.

DIFFERENT TRIBES OF INDIANS WITH BLACK HILLS SHOWS

Genuine Aztec Indians from Old Mexico, tribes of Nootka Indians, known as the cliff dwellers from the faraway northwestern coast of Vancouver Island; Cheyennes, Comanches, Arapahoes, Sioux, Wichitas, Cherokees and Pawnees in paint and eagle feathers.

The younger generations are frequently heard to say: "They are not real Indians, see how they are painted." This is but another example of the educational powers of the show. It tends to show how little the children know of the first settlers of this country. It is the "real" Indian who does paint and very seldom the counterfeit. The Indians have various ways of indiscriminate face painting, but they are never seen in any of their dances or ceremonies without a liberal application of paint of various hues. Yellow with the Sioux is a favorite color and they put it on regardless of blend or effect. They consider that the more paint they get on their faces the more beautiful they are, and the warriors appear more anxious to be beautiful than do the squaws.

The many tribes in vari-colored paints, feathers and blankets, present a historical and picturesque gathering.

The Black Hills Wild West Shows will give two splendid exhibitions in Washington C. H. on Monday, June 1st.

INNOVATION IN CHURCH SERVICES

Rev. W. B. Gage of the First Presbyterian church, is proposing to create an innovation in summer church services by holding Sunday night services on the lawn, on the Hinde street side of the church, during June. The grounds will be lighted by electricity and the coolness of the out-door air will give an added attraction to the services.

GAME ASSOCIATION WILL MEET TONIGHT

The Fayette County Fish and Game Protective Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at Memorial Hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock, and quite a number of the members will attend.

At the present time the membership is nearly 170; and continues to grow each week.

BRIDGE DAMAGED

The long wooden trestle on the D. T. & I. at Pecks, near Waverly, was badly damaged by fire, Sunday, and it was necessary to send a special train to the scene to extinguish the blaze and make repairs.

"Dead" Soldier Sits Up.

One of the men of the First royal Scots fusiliers, who reached Southampton recently from South Africa, was Private McDevet, who, though in the prime of life, has snow white hair. He had a narrow escape from being buried alive in India. After an attack of fever he was pronounced to be dead and was placed on a slab in the mortuary to await burial. Two hours later the sentry outside heard knocking from within. He opened the door and was startled to see McDevet sitting up. The experience turned McDevet's hair white. The sentry was driven mad by the shock and died.—London Mail.

TRICKED HIS PREMIER.

Pitt Was Quick to Act, but the King Got Ahead of Him.

On Jan. 19, 1905, Dr. Manners-Sutton, bishop of Norwich, was giving a dinner party in his Windsor deanery when his butler informed him that a gentleman wished particularly to see him, but would not give his name.

"Well, I can't come now in the middle of dinner," said the bishop.

"Beg pardon, my lord, but the gentleman is very anxious to see you on important business," and the butler was so urgent that the bishop apologized to his company and went out. The gentleman who would not be deceived proved to be King George III.

"How d'ye do, my lord?" said he. "Come to tell you that you're archbishop of Canterbury—archbishop of Canterbury. D'ye accept—accept? Eh, eh?"

The bishop bowed low in token of acceptance.

"All right," said his majesty. "You've got a party—see all their hats here. Go back to them. Good night."

Next morning Pitt appeared at Windsor castle to inform his majesty that Archbishop Moore had died the day before and to recommend the bishop of Lincoln, Dr. Pretyman, for the vacant primacy.

"Very sorry, very sorry, indeed," said the king, "but I offered it to the bishop of Norwich last night, and he accepted. Can't break my word."

Pitt was very angry, but the deed was done, as the king meant it should be, and so Dr. Manners-Sutton became archbishop of Canterbury and held the great office for twenty-three eventful years.—Chambers' Journal.

Spanish Nicknames.

One of the peculiar ways in which Spanish differs from English is in the names the language gives to all people with a certain infirmity or peculiarity. A blind man is referred to as el ciego, a man with but one eye is a tuerto, a pug nosed man is chato, one who is cross eyed is a bisojo, a cojo is a lame man, and a manco has but one arm. If he is humpbacked he is a jorobado, if baldheaded a calvo, and if his hair is very short he is a pelon. The feminine titles for the same classes are the same, with the exception that they end in "a" where the masculine terminate with "o." These short names are used most commonly. In fact, they are applied as nicknames in many cases, and especially among the lower classes persons are addressed or referred to only by these names.

Europe's Diamond Industry.

Years ago Amsterdam was at the head of the diamond industry in Europe. Of late Antwerp has forged ahead and taken first place. Amsterdam very largely specializes in small stones, and its superiority over Antwerp in cutting these diamonds is unquestioned. Antwerp, on the other hand, cuts large diamonds and small ones, according to what happens to be most in demand. It works on the larger Transvaal stones furnished by the London syndicate, and at the same time it monopolizes the small south-west African business.

TRAGIC BRAVERY.

Sublime Act of a Hero Who Went to a Watery Grave.

In the chapel at Glenalmond school in Perthshire, Scotland, there is a marble slab with this stirring story recorded upon it:

There was once in the school a pupil named Alexander Cumine Russell, who became an officer in the Seventy-fourth highlanders when only a lad of seventeen. In connection with the memorable loss of the Birkenhead he won immortal glory. The troopship struck upon a rock; the soldiers were formed in ranks upon the deck to die; the women and children were being saved in boats.

Russell was ordered into one of the boats to command it, and a little way off he watched with dimmed eyes the doomed ship. When she went down he saw creatures of the deep contending for his beloved comrades. Then he saw a sailor's form rise up close to the boat and a hand strive to grasp the side.

A woman in the craft called out in agony: "Save him! Oh, save him, sir! He is my husband," but there was no room for another, and the boat was laboring heavily as it was. Russell looked at the woman and then at her children, then at those beseeching eyes in the deep, and, rising in the stern, he plunged into the water and helped the sailor into what had been his own place. Then amid a chorus of "God bless you" from every one in the boat the brave young officer turned to meet his death.—Pearson's Weekly.

Boasted Too Soon.

When the old Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz was staying at Holkham with Thomas Coke, then commonly known as "king of Norfolk," he boasted one evening at dinner that no man had ever dared to shoot at him and that if any one had ever attempted such a thing he would have shot the man dead on the spot.

The next day at the court the grand duke suddenly felt a shower of shot peppering his legs and, turning round in a fury to find whence it proceeded, saw William Coke with a gun leveled in his direction.

"I've got another muzzle ready," said William coolly. "Will you shoot?"—From "The Life of Thomas Coke, Earl of Leicester."

What is understood to be the first picture ever taken of a "still" heart was produced at the Beloit hospital at Beloit, Wis., by Dr. William Hecker in demonstrations with an X ray. The picture was taken in one one-hundred-and-twentieth of a second by means of an impulse selector, with which the apparatus was equipped.—Washington Post.

SOME FAMOUS PAINTINGS.

A Tiny Work of Art and Rosa's Transformed Harpsichord.

The smallest painting in the world of distinctive merit was executed on the smooth side of a grain of corn by a Flemish artist. On this limited surface the artist painted in perfect detail a mill, a miller with a sack of grain on his back, a horse and cart and a group of several peasants standing in a road.

The largest picture ever painted is said to be a panorama of the Mississippi river, executed by John Banvard, an artist who died in Watertown, S. D., in 1891. The gigantic canvas was twenty-two feet high and nearly two miles long. It gave a detailed representation of 2,000 miles of the Father of Waters.

The largest of the old masters' canvases is Murillo's "Appearance of the Christ Child to St. Anthony of Padua." The picture is ten feet wide and eighteen feet high.

It is related that a friend called on Salvador Rosa in Florence one day and found him playing on an old harpsichord. The caller asked the artist why he kept such a worthless instrument.

"Why, it is not worth a scudo!" the friend said.

"I will wager," replied Rosa, "that it shall be worth a thousand before you see it again."

A bet was made. Rosa immediately painted a landscape on the lid that not only sold for 1,000 scudi, but was accounted a work of great merit.

BLOODY ANCHORIN MUTE TESTIMONY

By Associated Press.
Montreal, Canada, June 1.—The sharp point of an anchor projecting from the bow of the Norwegian collier, Storstad, may explain why that vessel did such terrible damage when it rammed the Empress of Ireland early last Friday in the lower St. Lawrence river. An examination today of the collier's shaft plates revealed the anchor, jammed in a position where it could have ripped through the hull of the Empress like a great can opener.
The anchor point and a portion of the battered steel surrounding it bore stains of blood.
Preparations were begun today for the inquiry into the disaster which cost, at the present estimate, 969 lives. The inquiry is to be conducted by a joint committee of Canadian and British ship experts.

REBS CASE UNSETTLED

By Associated Press.
Niagara Falls, June 1.—After a two hour conference between the mediators and the American delegates today the question of admitting the Constitutionalists into the negotiations for the settlement of the Mexican problem was still undecided. It was learned, however, that the desire of the United States to have the Constitutionalists heard before a final agreement is signed here has impressed the three mediators and they are taking a more favorable view of it.
After today's conference Justice Lamar dictated the following statement: "We had a conference this morning in which we continued the discussion of a point on which we had not agreed Saturday. The matter is still under discussion, but we found in our talk this morning that we were not so far apart in our construction of certain phases and we are still quite hopeful."

Quebec, Canada, June 1.—The body of Lawrence Irving, the English actor, was picked up last night on the west bank of the St. Lawrence below Rimouski. The face was bruised almost beyond recognition. FRENCH CABINET RESIGNS IN BODY

By Associated Press.
Paris, June 1.—The French cabinet premiership of Gaston Boumergue has decided to resign. The resignation was taken at a cabinet council today.
The chief factor in bringing about the resignation of the government is understood to be the uncertainty of its ability to control a majority in the chamber of deputies where some change in the numerous groups was brought about by the recent general election. Differences are said to have arisen among members of the cabinet concerning financial measures to have been introduced into parliament.

Weeks, who is a wealthy cigar dealer here, drove over the state line to his farm last night, and killed Ganey, whom he found in his house. Jealousy is said to be the motive. Week's father was postmaster here during Cleveland's first administration and his brother was a former mayor.

WINTERS CHILD IS BELIEVED FOUND

By Associated Press.
Findlay, Ohio, June 1.—Probate Judge Dosey planned today to issue an affidavit charging Mrs. Emma Thrappe with failing to keep her foster daughter in school as a legal means of holding the woman, who is under surveillance here, in connection with the belief that the 11-year-old girl with her may be the missing Katherine Winters of Newcastle, Ind.
Mrs. Thrappe insists that the child is her own grand-daughter and her adopted daughter. She says she has a brother, James Sanford, who is connected with the anti-saloon league in Chicago. The authorities here have placed the girl in a detention home, temporarily, awaiting photographs and a description of the Winters girl from Newcastle. The authorities there have given notification that Dr. Winters, father of the missing child, will come here to see the girl.

RAIN A RELIEF TO CHOKING HUMANITY

The rain Monday was welcomed by everyone as a great relief from the choking dust and torrid weather of the past two or three weeks.
Saturday and Sunday the dust was almost unbearable, and great clouds were whirled into the air by every passing vehicle, and then the fine particles crept into residences, and into every nook and corner, causing annoyance and much work to get rid of it.
Pastures, wheat fields, corn and oats were greatly enlivened by the Monday shower, and nearly every part of the county shared the rain.

TELLS OF GREAT WORK DONE BY THE Y. M. C. A.

Mr. E. K. Smith, Director of the Coming Campaign, Discusses Value of the Y. M. C. A. to the Individual, the Community and the World, and Gives Insight Into the Inestimable Value of Forward Movement of Humanity in Y. M. C. A. Work.

Giving a clearer and broader insight into the work of the Y. M. C. A. than that possessed by the average citizen, Mr. E. K. Smith, director of the "Clean Up" campaign of the Y. M. C. A., presented the cause at the First Baptist church, Sunday, and as a result his auditors were given new views, and in some instances, new attitudes toward the Y. M. C. A.

For the most part Mr. Smith spoke about the Y. M. C. A. as a whole, but he also discussed the value of the local institution to the individual and to the community.

Following is an abstract of his excellent address:

It is only a few generations since Jonathan Edwards reproved a young man for speaking in the house of God. Since then great movements of Christian Laymen have come into existence such as the Young Men's Christian Association, which had its beginning some twenty years ago in London, and is now reaching to every corner of the world with its definite practical program for the evangelization of all men everywhere. The Student's Volunteer Movement which is crystallizing the altruistic enthusiasm of college students, leading them to invest their lives where they will count for the most in the expansion of God's Kingdom. The Laymen's Missionary Movement which has given laymen a definite share in the world's program of redemption and established a business like systematized support to extension of the Kingdom of God to the uttermost parts of the earth. Church brotherhoods have become a familiar factor in the work of the churches everywhere, furnishing organized practical methods and definite tasks in the building up of the church and the kingdom. The more recent men and Religious Forward Movement which has definitely trained laymen as leaders in the various lines of religious work.

Today the layman is coming into his own, while the minister of a few decades ago was expected to do everything in the nature of church work that was done in his church. The best pastor of the present and future is the man who is able to lead the men of his church into active and definite work for Christ. It is not uncommon now to ask a layman to speak in the house of God. One of the most inspirational services I ever attended was addressed by two laymen who were among the number of Christian business men of America who paid five dollars apiece for the privilege of sitting in the Laymen's Missionary Convention at Chicago. Today it is perfectly natural and in order to invite a layman to speak in behalf of the laymen's work that is worthy of the best energy and brains and time of the Christian business men of the community; a work that aims at the conservation of waste in young manhood.

It is not a new theme that we are to discuss this morning. The question was raised in the earliest family group, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Only a few hundred years ago men were answering in the negative. Those were the dark ages of human history. That doctrine did not produce a Father Damien, that modern saint, who deliberately chose to cast in his life with the lepers on that island of the Pacific that he might minister to the needs of those abandoned people dying of that loathsome disease.

This idea that the chief end of man is to work out for himself personal individual salvation and perfection seems reasonable. It is God's plan for the world. It seems only natural then that men should wish to withdraw from temptation and from the contaminating influences of human society that they might preserve the greater freedom from sin and grow pure in thought and life. We have no quarrel with the motive, but question the method.

You who are fathers will remember how carefully you guarded the early years of that first boy of yours. You determined that this little life trusted to your care should be brought up pure, true and free from defilement in thought and speech and deed. You were careful to see that your boy did not play with those boys who would be likely to introduce evil thoughts and speech. You were proud of that little boy when at last he reached the school age and came home the first day, bearing perhaps one of those little gold stars that are given out for encouragement of those who do well. It was no surprise to you that your boy took first rank from the very beginning of his school days, but you were surprised and pained beyond measure at those things which he learned outside the classroom. Those things which you had been carefully guarding from him; then began for you with him the age-long struggle between righteousness and sin.

This is the age of conservation in industry. In the past few years large fortunes numbering into the seven or eight figures or more have been made out of the byproducts of a few years ago. The chief product of one big industry today was the by-product of the days before the automobile was known. A great copper smelter in the west spent over a million of dollars to build a gigantic chimney and fitted with gauze wire screen in such a way as to precipitate the particles of ore that might otherwise pass up with the smoke. The deposit yields a large yearly income.

In industry we are now giving considerable attention to the conservation of human energy, and it is along this line that the big fortunes of the present and the future are to be made. The physical and mental capacity of a human being has not begun to be discovered.

Today we are asking you to consider a matter of far greater importance than the conservation of material things, or even the conservation of human energy. We are asking you to consider the conservation of human souls. There is one magnificent institution at work on that problem as it has been at work gaining in strength and power from the days of Christ, viz., the Church. For ages this institution confined its activities to public meetings and the private ministrations of the clergy in the home. At length it added the Sabbath School for the instruction of its young in the ways of life. Later it added the young people's society for the development of its young people into active Christian work. There were yet a number of things that the church wanted to do for its young men, and the Young Men's Christian Association came into existence.

The founding of this institution is an interesting romance. A young man of seventeen came down from the country to the city. He located in a large dry goods store. He believed that he was his brother's keeper, and immediately began to lead his fellow clerks one by one to the foot of the cross. Mr. Hitchcock, his employer, noticed the changed lives of these young men, and fitted up a small room for them. The result of the earnest lives of these young men so impressed Mr. Hitchcock that he told other merchants about it, until this small beginning of the Young Men's Christian Association spread through all London. It was not long before the news reached this country, and in Boston in 1851, and in Montreal a few days later the same kind of work was established on this side of the Atlantic. It spread rapidly from city to city, until today there are over two thousand in this country.

Now, what is the relation of your boy, of the boy of Fayette county, to this world movement numbering over a half million in its membership, doing business everywhere on this same basis? "The Young Men's Christian Association seeks to unite those young men, who regarding the Lord Jesus Christ as their God and Savior according to the Holy Scriptures, desire to be his disciples in their doctrine and in their lives, and to associate their efforts for the extension of His Kingdom among young men," a united effort of Christian men to win other men to Christ. Sir George Williams, the founder, lived to know this basis which was established over 60 years ago at Paris reaffirmed and operative in twenty-seven different languages. What is the relation of your boy to this movement?

Perhaps your Washington youth goes out to seek an education in the higher institutions of learning. As he enters college, he is greeted by the representatives of the Young Men's Christian Association. He is made to feel at home. He is helped in locating, and if he desires to earn his way, is given opportunities of work through the instrumentality of the Y. M. C. A. At a recent Alumni Dinner at one of our leading colleges the principal speaker was a returned missionary. The Young Men's Christian Association with the Student's Volunteer Movement have so changed the dominant motives of college students that today they recognize ideals other than foot-ball and athletics.

Perhaps your young man leaves Washington Court House to take a position on a railroad, and he finds Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations with two hundred and fifty branches at junction points all over this country. There are fourteen railroad Young Men's Christian Associations in Ohio alone. A friend of mine went down to the depot at Worcester to take a train. As he passed by the engine he noticed the engineer seated on a baggage-truck with a little worn book and some papers in his hand. After a moment's conversation he discovered that the engineer was preparing his lesson in the correspondence course in Bible Study conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Perhaps your young man goes into one of the industries. Perhaps he located in one of the cotton mill towns of the south. He will find Young Men's Christian Associations there established, and doing a special work for the operatives of these mills. In the steel towns of Pennsylvania Industrial Young Men's Christian Associations are moulding the ideals and character of the men and boys. Among the quarries at Proctor, Vt., in the construction camps and in lumber camps all over this country the Young Men's Christian Association is present as an influence making for conservation of higher ideals and nobler manhood.

Perhaps your young man is attracted by the Army or the Navy, in this unnatural and abnormal life in the barracks and on the government battleships he is subject to peculiar temptations due to loneliness, and the unfamiliar temptations of foreign ports. Kipling has well said, "Single men in barracks do not grow into plaster saints." And so at the various army posts and forts of this country are located the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Associations.

Perhaps the young man of Washington Court House goes to some foreign country. In China a doctor came down some two hundred miles to Shanghai with his son, a young man of twenty. He brought him to the Young Men's Christian Association and introduced him to the Secretary. This man was in no way a believer in Christ, but he said, "I have noticed that the young men who go to the Y. M. C. A. are more spiritual than the other young men." All along this street there are door after door of American saloons ready to invite the young men to their destruction. There was reason then for the father's anxiety.

The Washington Court House of tomorrow will be what the boys of today make it. Where do these boys come from? There are three great streams pouring these youths into our cities. One is the stream of young men coming from the country, where three can do today what it required sixteen of our grandfathers to do. So these boys and young men are crowded out from the country home, and must seek employment elsewhere.

The third great stream, and the one most important in Fayette county is the stream of young men and boys from our own homes. These although brought up under the privileges, restraints and safe-guards of home life, need the gymnasium in order to train the muscles and tone up their physical being, and to furnish an outlet for their physical energy, that might otherwise find expression in ways that would lead to trouble and distress. In the gymnasium and in the camps we bring these boys into contact with leaders of the right type, men whose influence will extend throughout their whole lives. We will have evening educational classes to offer opportunities to supplement the school education in such practical subjects as Shorthand, Typewriting, Penmanship, Spelling, Business Arithmetic, Bookkeeping, the gas engine as applied to the automobile, window-dressing and sign writing, Mechanical Drawing, Salesmanship, to prepare young men for greater efficiency in their daily occupations.

In establishing character there is no more important influence than Bible study. Yet there is no advantage in duplicating existing agencies. The province of the Association in a community like this is Bible study is to bring together the leading men of the Churches in conference. Such conferences should result of course in the establishment of classes for the training of teachers of boys' and men's Bible classes, and the training of leaders of boys in various Sunday Schools. It should also result in establishing Bible study for special groups of men and boys such as high school boys, grammar school boys, men in factories, railroad men, men in hotels, boarding houses, etc. Whatever need is discovered should be taken care of under the leadership of the association.

Washington Court House is to be congratulated on this new awakening. The young men of a community are its greatest asset and Washington has decided to look after its assets. Who would not give generously to prevent what he would give a thousand worlds to cure? The business men and citizens of Fayette county during these next few days will say by their generous support that they want this modern, aggressive, scientific type of work here for young men and boys, and this church judging from its past position of leadership in this city will not be behind in the leadership of this enterprise.

FOREST PRESERVE IN SOUTHERN OHIO

By Associated Press.

Columbus, Ohio, June 1.—A huge tree laboratory, forest and bird preserve, covering more than 5000 acres of southern Ohio hills, is contemplated by the State Agricultural Commission. Plans will be worked out by a committee of six agricultural men, appointed by President A. P. Sandler of the commission, at a meeting of foresters held here Wednesday. Homer C. Price, dean of the college of agriculture at Ohio State university and member of the agricultural commission, said today he would call a meeting of the committee within a few weeks to start definite consideration of the proposed forest reservation.

It is probable the general assembly will be asked next winter for an appropriation of about $50,000 for the beginning of this preserve, maintained entirely as a great "object lesson" for Ohio agricultural interests. Trees will be grown on the preserve as a crop. They will be planted, cared for and marketed like any other farm crop. The state of Ohio will take the lead to show that trees are a profitable agricultural product, though the real profits may be reaped by the next or even the second generation.

Ross, Pike and Scioto are the counties in which the forest preserve may

SUPREME COURT OF THE WORLD IS SEEN IN FUTURE

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., June 1.—The Supreme Court of the world ought to be set up and at work within another two years, declared Henry P. MacFarland, of Washington, in an address before the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration here today. Nothing is lacking for this supreme court, which is known as the International Court of Arbitral Justice, except an agreement upon its membership. The Hague Conference of 1907, at which the court was established in name, did not agree upon the composition of the court since the delegates of the smaller powers would not agree to a membership in which they were not directly represented.

Mr. MacFarland declared that he could state positively, although not quote his authority, that a proposition to start the court with nine members has been made and that this proposition promises to be favorably viewed by the governments to which it will be communicated.

He named the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Russia and Japan and the Netherlands as the countries to be represented.

He expressed the hope that the court, once established, should command the respect and regard of the sovereign states of the world as the Supreme Court of the United States under Marshall had won the confidence of the sovereign states of the union.

Another Ocean Disaster

Another awful tragedy of the sea occurred in the early morning hours of last Friday almost in sight of land.

Latest reports, which seem to be authentic, are to the effect that nearly one thousand human beings lost their lives when the Empress of Ireland—Canadian Pacific mail steamship—sank in the St. Lawrence river.

According to the story related by Captain Kendall of the ill fated liner, every precaution to avoid just such a tragedy as occurred, was being taken by him.

In the early morning watches, he sighted, from the bridge of his ill-fated ship, the big Danish collier, which later dealt the death blow.

The trained eye of Captain Kendall at the same time noticed the treacherous fog coming out from the shore and, with the intuition of long experience, he realized that the fog would soon envelope both his ship and the Collier with a blanket under which another tragedy of the sea might lurk.

Captain Kendall reports that he gave all warning signals and received his answer from the neighboring ship.

Instead of recklessly plowing ahead at full speed Captain Kendall stopped his engines, according to his story and drifted in the trough of the sea.

This was, under ordinary circumstances, a proper course, but in this particular case it proved to be the course which brought about the disaster.

While drifting, with the engines of the big ship idle, the Collier, going full speed ahead, rammed her prow into the side of the liner, tearing a great hole through which the waters of the sea poured and in less than fifteen minutes the sturdy ship was at the bottom of the sea, and a thousand souls had been launched into eternity.

Like most of the awful tragedies of that sort, a study of conditions, after the occurrence, show that it could easily have been prevented.

It does seem that the law of the high sea should control both vessels on occasions like those existing last Friday morning in the St. Lawrence river. If one vessel stopped her engines, the other should have done the same.

The fact that Captain Kendall chose the course which cautioned dictated as the proper one to safeguard the lives in his keeping and the costly vessel and cargo, which was in his control seems to have enabled disaster to overtake him and his ship.

Fate plays a cruel game, sometimes, with human beings. The Titanic rushing under full speed crashed into the sharp sides of the ice berg which sent her to the bottom of the sea. Had she been drifted all would have been well. The Empress of Ireland was drifting with her engines stopped and disaster came. Had she been going at full speed ahead, all would have been well.

In the Titanic disaster, man was dealing with nature's uncontrollable forces, but in the Empress of Ireland disaster men were dealing with forces of their own creation and under their own control.

A common understanding—a common code of navigation honestly obeyed—would have made the disaster of Friday morning impossible.

The facts so far made public indicate that some one is answerable for the disaster.

Is this tragedy, after all, chargeable to fate or to man?

Poetry For Today

PLAYING SAFE.

I have joined this safety movement,
For in a world of strife
It makes for man's improvement
And often saves his life.
If of safety one keeps thinking,
One will dodge a lot of woes;
One will do but little drinking
And will not tell all one knows.

If one's feeling well or poorly
(No, sir, I do not knock!)
One will think of safety surely
And will shun the beer that's bock.
If a man heeds well his acts he,
When he travels near and far,
Will avoid the thrilling taxi
And will use a trolley car.

When he thinks he wants to marry,
Though his heart's about to burst,
Through habit he will tarry
And think of "safety first".
Yes, it certainly is splendid,
And it saves men worlds of woe—
Would it could be extended
Back into the long ago!

RAPID DEVELOPMENT OF NAVAL WIRELESS

How Hundreds of Vessels Keep in Close Touch With World Thousands of Miles Away. Wonderful Improvements in Recent Years—Every War Vessel in Constant Touch With Main Naval Radio Office at Washington.

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 1.—Captain W. H. G. Bullard, U. S. N., who is in charge of the naval radio service, and who has his headquarters under the shadow of the three great steel masts which form the center of the naval wireless system at Arlington, Va., seven miles from Washington, has just presented to the Naval Institute an interesting review of the development of naval wireless telegraphy.

The leaps and bounds of this development are brought to pointed notice when it is recalled that during the Spanish-American War such a thing as wireless telegraphy was untried in the United States Navy—or any other navy. It was during 1899, the year after the Spanish-American conflict, that the British navy became the first of all of the naval powers to try the new means of communication upon the three warships, Alexandria, Europa, and Juno. These ships succeeded in communicating up to a distance of 74 miles.

Today practically every vessel in the United States Navy is equipped with apparatus for this aerial communication, and it is so successfully operated that there is scarcely a point in the seven seas at which the bigger battleships would be out of touch, through relay, with the three great masts towering over Captain Bullard's headquarters at Arlington.

The first trial of wireless on American warships was made late in 1899, directly after the British ships had proved its possibilities. The armored cruiser New York (now the Saratoga), the battleship Massachusetts and the Torpedo Boat Porter were the first to be equipped. At about the same time the Highlands Light Station in New York harbor was established as the first shore station of the naval radio system.

Within six years more than 30 ships were equipped, and some fifty shore stations established or projected. Almost every other vessel in the navy was then placed on the list for wireless equipment and the work went forward just as fast as possible. The scheme included both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard, Alaska, the Midway Islands and remote points.

Meanwhile, in the spring of 1905, the naval system inaugurated what have proved valuable daily features of its service—flashing the noon time signal, storm warnings and other meteorological observations.

In 1907-08 the development of the wireless seem to warrant the erection of high-powered stations at Washington, on the Pacific coast, at Hawaii, Guam, Samoa, and the Philippines, so that wherever it might be, the United States fleet would at all times be in communication with Washington. The success of long distance communication was established during 1908, when the Hawaiian Islands exchanged messages with Farallon Islands, Cal., and later during the cruise of the Atlantic fleet around the world, when messages were received across Central America by Pensacola and Washington. By a system of relays the fleet was in touch with Washington practically every minute during the trip across the Pacific until after New Zealand was reached.

At that time also the high powered naval station near here, to be the central point of the Navy Department system, was projected. The station was to have a radius of 3,000 miles both by day and night; to be capable of overcoming interference from static disturbances and to be equipped with apparatus to secure secrecy of operation. Later developments disclosed that this could not be entirely accomplished as to static disturbances and complete secrecy of communication.

Congress for the first time took notice of wireless in the Act of June 24, 1910, which was amended by the Act of July 23, 1912. The Titanic disaster of April 1912 riveted the attention of lawmakers anew to the necessity of government control over radio apparatus and its operation. Further laws were passed, and the President proclaimed the Berlin Wireless Convention, since succeeded by the London Wireless Convention, establishing general rules for wireless as to ships throughout the world.

Some of the later extensions of wireless were the establishment of the station on the ground of the American Legation at Peking, China, for communication between officials of the United States Legation and vessels of the Asiatic Fleet, and the Panama Canal station. The latter is to be unusually powerful, with three 600-foot steel towers for the support of the antennae. It is erected half way across the Isthmus near San Pablo. The name given to it, Darien, is the name of the early explorers of that region.

The Mexican trouble led to further extension to take the place of interrupted land lines and for exchange with the ships. Isabel, Texas, near the mouth of the Rio Grande, was chosen as the central point of operation on the Atlantic side, and San Diego on the Pacific side.

There are now 48 naval shore stations, those at outside points being three along the Panama Canal, one at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; one at San Juan, Porto Rico; seven in Alaska and outlying islands; two in the Philippines; one at Hawaii; one at Guam and one at Peking, China, with other projected stations in Samoa and elsewhere rapidly nearing completion.

The chief work of the naval stations is to keep the Navy Department in connection with its ships at sea, either by direct or relayed messages. This service extends to all bureaus, offices and divisions of the Navy Department, those in command of navy yards and stations, and to officers of fleets, divisions and ships. The transmission of time signals has also developed to great importance for war and merchant ships to avoid error in the ships chronometer, etc. Signals from Arlington are sent out every day in the year, twice a day, at noon and at 10 p. m., 75th Meridian time. Time signals are now sent out on the Atlantic coast only thru the radio stations at Arlington, Key West and New Orleans. On the Pacific coast, the time signals are sent to sea through the wireless stations at Mare Island, Eureka and San Diego in California, and at North Head, in Washington.

The daily weather reports, and storm warnings, are sent from Arlington and Key West a few minutes after the ten o'clock time signal at night, but important storm warnings are sent whenever necessary. Warnings of icebergs and derelicts are sent to sea from the Arlington station following the time signal and weather reports. At such times ships are listening on the long wave of Arlington, 2,500 meters, and their receiving circuits are tuned to receive the ice or derelict report. Incoming ships are compelled, under the London Safety Convention, to report information concerning ice and derelicts; this goes through the Hydrographic Offices to the Arlington station, and then seaward and to other stations.

This information being of an urgent character—icebergs, derelicts, cyclones and typhoons—is sent under a special signal, called the safety signal, repeated at short intervals, ten times at full power—(T T T). On receiving this all radio stations are required to keep silent, in order to let the danger warnings go broadcast.

More recent developments of the naval wireless work are the fog signals and direction finders, by which the dangers attending fogs are overcome, and the location and direction of ships in reference to shore stations are established; also a rapid development of commercial work by which the general public and the press are allowed to use the wireless equipment aboard warships and at shore stations, on payment of land and sea charges. These charges are regulated under the London Convention, and the amounts collected by naval coast or ship stations are turned into the treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

All Mexico's Gold Not Worth One Brave American

By THOMAS A. EDISON

IT'S too bad these Mexicans don't know how to conduct themselves and have respect for a superior nation and its honor.
OF COURSE I THINK IT'S BAD BUSINESS FOR A NATION TO MARCH AROUND WITH A CHIP ON ITS SHOULDER, DARING THE OTHER FELLOW TO KNOCK IT OFF. I WOULD BE INCLINED TO LET MY PRIDE SUFFER A LITTLE BEFORE I WOULD PLUNGE OUR COUNTRY INTO WAR WITH MEXICO. WHY, I WOULDN'T SACRIFICE THE LIFE OF ONE BRAVE AMERICAN LAD FOR ALL THE GOLD THERE IS IN MEXICO.

Japan Hasn't Any Desire to Engage In War

By NEWTON W. GILBERT, Former Vice Governor of Philippines

THERE are many reasons and each of them good why there can be no war between the United States and Japan. To begin with, the JAPANESE GOVERNMENT HAS ALL IT CAN DO WITH PROBLEMS RIGHT AT HOME to keep it busy for years to come. So great are those problems that the country could not afford to let any of its energies be spent in another direction.

THE TREMENDOUS PROBLEMS EXISTENT IN MANCHURIA, FORMOSA AND KOREA WHICH NOW CONFRONT THE JAPANESE PEOPLE CANNOT BE NEGLECTED BY THEM AT THIS TIME. THEN THERE IS THE BIG NATIONAL DEBT OF JAPAN RESULTING FROM THE WAR WITH RUSSIA, WHICH IS ANOTHER EXCELLENT REASON WHY THAT NATION IS IN NO SHAPE TO THINK OF A CONFLICT WITH THIS COUNTRY.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM IS BEAUTIFUL AND IMPRESSIVE

Great Crowd Pays Tribute to the Soldier Dead, and Show Deep Respect for the Gallant Veterans Who Take Part in Services—Stirring Address Forms Part of Inspiring Program—Attendance Larger Than Usual.

Memorial day in Washington Court House has ever been a day of more than passing importance and has always been observed with a sincerity and thoroughness unusual, but the commemoration of the brave deeds of the nation's heroes here Saturday totally eclipsed any like event in recent years.

With the solemn tolling of many city bells the observance of this day so dear to the hearts of the few surviving "boys in blue" began, and throughout the entire program, which continued all afternoon, not once did the patriotic interest of the hundreds of participants wane.

The exercises opened with a short program in Memorial Hall preceding the march to the cemetery, which was especially touching. Mr. Frank Allen was chairman and the program was at once eloquent and thrilling in its tender reference to the time honored veterans who occupied a special section of the hall.

The address of the afternoon by the Rev. Frederick E. Ross of the Grace church, a splendid memorial tribute, brought tears of patriotism to many eyes.

The reading of "Logan's General Order No. 29" by Miss Emily Tanzey was greeted by a warm burst of applause which was repeated when Miss Van Winkle delivered the famous Gettysburg address by President Lincoln.

Another prominent and stirring feature of the program was the rendition of the old war songs including "America," "The Old Flag Never Touched the Ground," and "The Star Spangled Banner," by a quartette composed of Mrs. Mary Goldsberry Burgett, Miss Ada Woodward, Messrs Roscoe Kibler and Walter Sprenger.

The march to the cemetery and the services there constituted perhaps the most stirring and successful affair of its kind in many years. Never before have the veterans turned out in such large numbers and this was due to the foresight and kindness of the Sons of Veterans who secured thirty-five automobiles to transfer the one hundred and fifty or more old warriors to the cemetery.

First in line of march came Company M, of the Ohio National Guards and then, in a body, afoot, the Col. B. H. Millikan camp, Sons of Veterans, followed by beautiful flower floats and, in bodies immediately after, the Womens Relief Corps and the Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R. Then came the white haired veterans, not tired, dusty and struggling painfully along afoot as in former years, but comfortably esconced in automobiles provided by kind citizens. After the veterans came a long line of citizens.

The services at the cemetery can be fully and accurately described in the one word—beautiful. Never before has Washington cemetery presented such a gorgeous appearance dressed, as it was, in a wealth of flowers and greenery.

Immediately on arrival of the marchers, began the decoration of the graves and then came the impressive cenotaph service at the base of the G. A. R. monument by the Women's Relief Corps, conducted by Commander Milton Hyer, Chaplain William Davenport and Officer of the Day Charles McCrea. The exercise closed with a salute by Company M and the sounding of the taps.

Returning from the cemetery the participating organizations and individuals were served with welcome refreshments by the Ladies' Circle at Memorial hall.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEMORIAL.

A prelude to the Memorial Day services, beautiful in its tender tribute of remembrance, was the Epworth League Memorial of Sunday night, at Grace church.

The national colors were markedly in evidence and great clusters of pink and white peonies completed the effective decoration.

Mrs. Mabel Calvert Blessing played the national airs best loved by the "boys of '61", as the G. A. R. organizations marched in, and were comfortably seated by the Daughters of Veterans, acting as the evening's ushers.

Sad beyond words was "the long roll call," introduced for the first time by Comrade Wm. Davenport, and the martial music which followed later in the program.

Mr. Gilbert Adams, president of the league, gave a cordial address of welcome and the Ladies' quartet, Misses Parrett, Teters, Cleveland and Larrimer, added much to the pleasure of the evening in beautiful numbers.

Of great pathos and beauty was Miss Luella Riley's reading, "Comrades, You Are Facing the Setting of the Sun."

Rev. F. E. Ross delivered an address which made strong appeal to the comrades, touching upon phases of the war time and drawing from them lessons for today's patriotism.

Mrs. Blessing presided at the organ throughout the program.

Chaplain Near offered the prayer of the evening.

The program was in charge of Miss Ethel Calvert, chairman.

BORDERING UPON CENTURY MARK

Mrs. Elias Johnson, belonging to one of the old Fayette county families, celebrated her ninetyeth birthday May 29th, 1914, at her present home in Leesburg.

Mrs. Johnson was born on the farm in Concord township, this county, now owned by Joe E. Mark, of this city, it being the home farm of the late Joseph Mark, who died in 1886. Born and reared in the days of Fayette's formative history, growing up with the progress of the country and rounding out her days in the comforts and pleasures of its development and prosperity, Mrs. Johnson added much to the interest of the day with her early reminiscence.

Of the two sisters and three brothers living, four were present to enjoy the occasion—Mr. Henry Mark, Mr. Lewis Mark, Mrs. Mary S. Stafford, Mrs. Hulda Patton living in this county. One brother, Anthony W. Mark, residing in Illinois, was unable to be present because of his advanced age.

The ages of the six brothers and sisters on May 29, 1914, wanted but seven and one-half days of the remarkable average of 82 years. The youngest is 73 years, and the oldest the subject of this sketch, now in the last decade of the century.

The statement that they were all in remarkably good health was fully substantiated by the fact that they gave able assistance in relieving the table of the great burden of delicious eatables that were taxing its strength.

Mrs. Johnson's children are scattered from Maryland to California.

One son, Horace, of Memphis, Tenn., and two daughters, of Cumberland, Md., were present. Two sons in California were not able to attend.

A large circle of relatives and friends joined with Mrs. Johnson and her family and spent the day in a way most pleasurable.

CHANGE OF TIME CAUSES CONFUSION

In the southern part of the city the school children have become accustomed to hurrying off to school when the D. T. & I. morning train passed up—this being the signal for a general stampede toward school.

Monday morning the new time card went into effect and the morning train, instead of arriving at 7:53, arrived at 7:34 a. m., and the children began a hurried rush for school, all declaring the clocks in that part of the city were wrong, as they showed the train at least 20 minutes early, according to old schedule.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT BLOOMINGBURG

A crowd somewhat smaller than usual attended the Bloomingburg memorial services, Saturday afternoon, the dust making travel too disagreeable for many to attend, and the closed road north of Bloomingburg causing many to remain at home rather than take a round-about way to reach Bloomingburg.

Very appropriate services were held at the church, where Rev. Thomas delivered the memorial address. The veterans of Miriam Judy Post then marched to the cemetery, led by the Bloomingburg band, where the usual services were held.

LAD PAINFULLY INJURES HIS EYE

Carl, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Minnick, of Staunton, nearly lost the sight of one eye Saturday by falling against his father's automobile and striking his head against a pin projecting from a part of the machine.

The pin penetrated deep into the eye socket above the eye, but fortunately did not injure the sight. Blood poured from the wound and covered the lad's face, giving his parents a bad scare. The child was brought to this city and the wound was sewed up.

LIGHTNING STRIKES D. R. JACOBS RESIDENCE

Monday morning a bolt of lightning struck the residence of D. R. Jacobs, on South Hinde street, scattering brick, mortar and shingles in all directions, some of the brick being hurled a distance of 75 feet from the house.

The bolt passed down the flue, hurling grime into every room, and badly shocking Mrs. Jacobs, who was rendered very ill for some little time. For quite a while after the shock she was paralyzed in the right lower limb.

Several persons in the immediate vicinity were slightly stunned by the heavy bolt.

INFANT STRUCK BY MOTORCYCLE

Little Walter Kane, 4-year-old son of John Kane, second-hand dealer, miraculously escaped death when struck by a motorcycle on Court street in front of the Gossard Jewelry store about noon Sunday.

The child had started to cross the street and the motorist seeing him slowed down and turned to avoid him. As he did so the frightened little fellow turned in the same direction, thinking to avoid the cyclist. The result was that the motorcycle, which by this time was running very slowly, struck the child, knocking him down, and the front wheel passed over him.

He was picked up and carried to his home more frightened than injured, suffering nothing more serious than slight abrasions of the forehead and the right arm.

RABID DOG BITES THREE ALL WILL TAKE TREATMENT

Two Small Children and One Woman Attacked and Bitten by Mad Dog Near Octa—The State Board of Health Pronounces Case Hydrophobia—So-called "Mad Stone" May be Used by One of the Victims

As a result of being attacked and bitten by a dog which was later declared to be suffering from the dreaded rabies, three persons in the Octa neighborhood are to take the Pasteur treatment to prevent the disease from fastening its death-hold upon them.

The dog, a small black animal, owned by Mrs. Lucy Hodge, of Octa, had been acting strangely for several days, beginning last week, and later it attacked and wounded little six-year-old Flossie Yarger, a five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Rhoades, and Mrs. Myrtle Archart.

The two children were bitten in the face, while Mrs. Archart was slightly wounded on one foot.

It was then that George Yarger killed the brute, and being anxious to learn whether the dog had hydrophobia, sent the head to proper authorities at Columbus and Saturday report came back that the brute had been suffering from a very bad form of the disease.

Arrangements were made at once to administer the Pasteur serum treatment to those bitten, and Dr. Adams, of Milldeville, has the work in charge.

Mrs. Archart had planned to take treatment at Jamestown, where a man named Harvey Smith possesses what is known as a "mad stone", but she may forego this and take the serum treatment.

It is claimed the "mad stone" has a number of cures to its credit.

In addition to biting the three persons, the dog is said to have bitten a number of animals in the neighborhood.

It is believed that the dog was bitten by a rabid animal which passed through the Octa neighborhood several weeks ago.

NEW MOTOR CARS FAIL TO ARRIVE

The D. T. & I. railroad officials were much disappointed, Monday, in not being able to place their new motor cars in commission on the road owing to the fact that they went astray on their way to the point of delivery, and it was necessary to send a tracer after them.

However, the new schedule went into effect, with the exception of cars No. 17 and 16, due at 12:53 and 4:03, which are cancelled until the new cars arrive, which is expected to be within the next two or three days.

Until further notice, the time card will be: Northbound—7:34 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. South-bound—9:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

When the new cars are put on Nos. 11, 15, 12 and 16 will stop on signal at Locust Grove, Thorps, Fayette, Ghormleys and New Salem.

IMPORTANT CHANGE OF TIME ON B. & O.

Several changes have been made in the time table of the B. & O. Railroad, effective now.

Both early morning trains now reach here at 5:05 o'clock. The two evening trains, Nos. 107 and 108 are due here at 6:08 o'clock. East bound No. 104 is due at 10:42 and 106 is due at 10:53.

This schedule will, in all probability, remain unchanged throughout the summer.

NEW ZEALAND EELS.

Big Enough and Daring Enough to Kill a Man or a Salmon.

Eels can cause the death of a salmon of considerable weight by the use of strategy. One will obtain the grip between the dorsal fin and the tail and then hold on like a bulldog, while the unfortunate victim in vain throws itself backward and forward, endeavoring to shake off its captor, until at length its strength is exhausted and the eel proceeds to make a meal at leisure.

Worse crimes than these are laid to their charge in New Zealand. A great number of bathing fatalities had taken place at a certain spot, where the current ran with such strength that a powerful swimmer could only just stem it. It was a favorite pastime to have a tussle with the stream, but several times a bather disappeared before help could reach him, and when his body was found it had been eaten by eels.

The cause of the fatalities remained unknown for a long time, but at last it was discovered that while the swimmer was almost stationary in the rapid stream a huge eel would seize him by the foot or leg and drag him beneath the surface. Eels attain an immense size in those waters, twenty to thirty pounds being no uncommon weight.—Pittsburgh Press.

A Man Who Grew Shorter.

The death is reported of Albert Mills, known as "the brittle man of Birmingham." For twenty-six years Mills had suffered from an obscure disease which caused a shrinkage of bodily stature and made him the object of study by medical men from all over the world. Mills was fifty-eight years of age. The disease was diagnosed as osteomalacia, and its chief symptom is the disappearance of lime from the body, leaving the bones soft and misshapen. It became impossible for him to move, and for over fourteen years he had been confined to his bed. Before his illness he was five feet eight inches in height, but he gradually sank until at the time of his death he was under four feet high, having lost twenty inches in twenty-six years.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A New Kind of Date.

Perhaps the last thing in the world over which the vagaries of fashion might be expected to exercise any influence is in regard to such an everyday practice as the style of dating letters. Yet even here fads and fancies have their way. A new fancy is said to be the elimination of the date of the month altogether, simply giving the day of the year. For instance, Aug. 1 would be represented by "213-1914," while for New Year's eve "365-1914" would be used.—London Globe.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Of great dignity and impressive-ness were the Baccalaureate services held in Grace church Sunday night.

The capacity of the immense church was taxed to its utmost long before the class of 1914 in collegiate cap and gown entered.

Supt. Wm. McClain and Principal Probasco headed the procession of graduates and following came the High school faculty and members of the Board of Education.

The chancel and altar were superbly decorated in palms, canteberry bells and daisies, introducing the class colors of royal purple and silver gray. The Buck florists had the decorating in charge.

Rev. Hostetler opened the services with prayer and the choir furnished special music, including a beautiful anthem, with solo by Miss Gardner. Mr. Kneisley's violin solo and organ solos by Miss Light.

Rev. Frederick E. Ross delivered a Baccalaureate address that was universally pronounced one of the most eloquent and inspiring ever delivered to a local graduating class.

Taking as his theme, "Training for Victory," the minister introduced his discourse by explanation of the unusual text, "Let not him that putteth on his armor boast as he that putteth it off." Kings 20:11.

Life is a warfare. There is a goal to be won, a victory to be achieved. It is imperative that you should clearly see the true end and object of life. That end is not wealth, honor or position. It is character. Without character all else is unavailing.

The mere perception, however, of the object of life is not enough. Training is essential to victory. This training implies:

First. Information or knowledge. The trained youth must know, and he must have an enthusiasm for knowledge.

Every student should know his country's history, the facts and their relation, the forces and their evolution. In this age of slang and exaggeration, good language should be regarded as an accomplishment. Mathematics, science and literature—these are tempting fields to the alert mind. Ignorance today is a sin. If you are a candidate for success you must know.

Interpretation is another element in training. It is one thing to know the facts; another to know the meaning of the facts.

Application is next. If Watt, having discovered the power of steam, had not applied his discovery to mining, manufacturing and transportation, the world would be much poorer. So with all progress in invention.

So in religion. We shall never outgrow the Ten Commandments. There will never be anything finer than the Sermon on the Mount. We do not need a new religion. We need only a more general and honest application of the gospel to the conditions of modern life.

Commencement is but the beginning of the real business of life. You are putting on the armor, not taking it off.

Victory will wait upon you. The address was concluded with words of congratulation to the superintendent, teachers and board of education.

Rev. Thomas, of Bloomingburg, pronounced the benediction.

In Social Circles

The atmosphere of cordial hospitality which always pervades the Fullerton home, accentuated the pleasure of one of the prettiest of summer parties, given by Miss Dorothy Fullerton, Friday night.

The moon looked down upon a fascinating picture of youth and joy, pretty buds in many colored gowns and debonaire youths dotting the grounds, and verandas of both the Fullerton home and adjoining Duff residence. The home, with its large connecting rooms, was also thrown open to the seventy-five young people who greeted their fair young hostess.

Rigio, the artistic harpist of Springfield, filled the air with exquisite strains, and quantities of pink and white peonies were used in decoration.

A delicious summer collation was served and fruit punch all evening.

Mrs. Fullerton, Misses Fullerton, Edna Fenner and Mary Weaver assisted.

Miss Charlotte Harper, of Lafontaine, Ind., was a guest.

A large circle of friends in this city will be interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Judith Silcott, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jas. Silcott, and Mr. John Robinson, as made in Sunday Commercial Tribune:

"After keeping secret their marriage for over three months, Judith Silcott and John Robinson IV, of Avondale, broke the news of their matrimonial venture Friday night. It was in the home of the bride that the marriage was made known.

"The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Silcott. John Robinson IV is the great grandson of the circus man bearing his name.

"The wedding was performed in this city shortly after the wedding of a sister of the bride, Miss Helen Marie Silcott, to Eugene C. Denton of the McAlpine Company."

MISS DEE SMILEY IN CABARET SINGING

MISSION AT ST. COLMAN'S CHURCH

A week's mission conducted by Rev. J. R. Rosswinkle, S. J., of Chicago, opened Sunday at St. Colman's church, of which Rev. Thos. Fogarty is pastor.

In the introductory sermon, a lucid explanation of the meaning, scope and purpose of a Catholic mission was given. The question was pointedly put as propounded by the Redeemer, "What does it profit a man to gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his own soul? What exchange can a man give for his soul?" The answer to this all important question, said the missionary, would form the leading thought of all his discourses.

A very large audience greeted him at the evening service, when the question, "Whence, why and whither", involving man's origin, the purpose of his existence here on earth, and his final destiny, formed the topic of his instructive sermon. The old Catholic custom of congregational singing was successfully revived and enthusiastically taken up by all present. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to any and all services.

WILL SOON BEGIN LAYING THE BRICK

Within a short time the work of laying the brick on the Bloomingburg and Midway pike, immediately north of Bloomingburg, will be under way, and it will require very little time to complete the work when once the paving is actually started.

Most of the grading has been done, and the concrete curbs have been constructed. The road is closed to all vehicles, and persons desiring to reach Bloomingburg from the north must leave the main road north of Wm. Parkers' residence, and cross over to the Danville pike, coming out at Rodgers' Park and thence to Bloomingburg.

GETS STIFF FINE FOR BOOTLEGGING

Allie DeWitt, arrested Friday evening on a charge of bootlegging, was later found guilty before Mayor Coffey, and fined $200 and the costs, and a fine of $25 which has been pending against him, was also enforced. He was placed in the county jail until he could pay the fine or be taken to the Xenia workhouse.

The Chinese government which owns the country's telegraph system, has extended it until more than 1,000 miles of cable are now in use.

TO PUT THROUGH ANTI-TRUST BILLS

Democratic Solons Aroused By Roosevelt's Statement.

WILSON AIDED UNWITTINGLY

Leaders of All Shades of Political Belief of the Opinion That the Colonel's Criticisms Will Hasten Action On Pending Trust Measures. What Politicians Say of the Oyster Bay Sage's Pronouncement.

Washington, June 1.—According to political leaders the statement issued Saturday by Colonel Roosevelt rendered President Wilson a service. They say it will force the Democrats to put through the program for anti-trust legislation, as President Wilson desires, at this session of congress. Thus the Roosevelt broadside is likely to diminish the troubles of the business world.

Republicans as well as Democrats regard Colonel Roosevelt's statement as indicating a tendency to get 'in line' with Republican policies. He attacked in a general way those things that the Republicans have been attacking. With a common point of attack Colonel Roosevelt's followers and the Republicans will soon find themselves co-operating politically. The tendency is in that direction and the coalition is inevitable, in the opinion of politicians here.

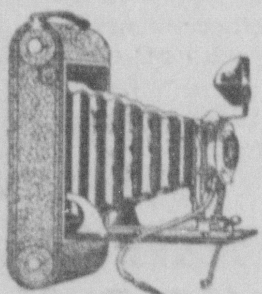

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, and joint author with Representative Underwood of the tariff law, asked to be excused from making a formal statement on the Roosevelt statement. Senator Simmons said he did not believe it required an answer and intimated that he thought it rather innocuous and hardly up to the colonel's average in such matters.

One of the most interesting comments on the Roosevelt statement was by Senator Borah of Idaho. "I am very glad," said he, "to see Colonel Roosevelt take up with his usual vigor and decisiveness the fight for Republican policies and principles. The logic of his statement is that there must be united action to relieve the country from conditions he describes and terminate the policies which he criticizes. I am exceedingly pleased to see him in the fight."

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Democrat, said: "I think Colonel Roosevelt's statement answers itself in a sense. He charges that the Democratic tariff has failed to benefit the people. It had the support of members of his own party. If it fails as a revenue producer or in other ways, Progressives must share some of the blame. Mr. Roosevelt has been in the United States for 10 days, after an absence of about nine months. He is hardly in a position to say of his knowledge that business is bad. Business is bad, but it is improving."

The Bull Mooseers in congress would have liked the colonel's statement better if he had made it more definite

KILLS WATCHMAN

New York, June 1.—Michael Krepa, 34, a watchman at the Robert Gair company's plant, Brooklyn, was found murdered in the office of the factory. The police arrested Thomas Tarry, 34, formerly employed as a watchman by the company, whom Krepa caused to be discharged. Tarry made a confession he had killed Krepa; that he had tried to find the opportunity to do it several times before, but had never succeeded.

DISAPPOINTED SWAIN USES DYNAMITE

Halifax, N. S., June 1.—Because Miss Michelle Robinson, a young woman to whom Thomas Reilly was paying attention, would not respond to his appeal to come to the front door of her home and see him, he exploded a stick of dynamite. The explosion blew in the front of the house and smashed the windows in two blocks. The dynamite had a time fuse and he was able to get out of danger. Reilly was arrested.

REBEL LEADER IS MIXING THINGS

Carranza Selects a Provisional Government For Mexico.

PLACES HIMSELF AT THE HEAD

Will Have the Protection of Five Thousand Troops in Saltillo, the Provisional Capital, and Will Be in Line to Take Up the Task of Ruling Mexico When the Huerta Government Has Been Removed.

Torreon, Mexico, June 1.—To forestall action by the peace mediators at Niagara Falls, in selecting a provisional government for Mexico, General Carranza virtually assumed the position of provisional president and began the work of selecting his cabinet.

Advices to this effect were received here from Durango, and also that Carranza was to leave Durango for Saltillo to formally establish a provisional government. The new capital will have the protection of nearly 5,000 troops of the army of General Pablo Gonzales, who has transferred his army from Monterey to Saltillo. He will protect Saltillo, while it remains the provisional capital, and will send detachments of troops to garrison the smaller towns in that vicinity, while Villa's main army is conducting the campaign against Zacatecas and San Luis Potosi. When the rebel army moves upon Mexico City, General Gonzales and his army will escort the provisional president and his cabinet to the permanent capital.

This action by the rebels, it is claimed, puts them in line to be entrusted by the mediators with the task of governing Mexico after the Huerta government has been removed and until a new government can be chosen by elective method.

Carranza already has selected a portion of his cabinet and has decided upon Roberto Pesuria, formerly rebel diplomatic agent at Washington, to be governor of the federal district.

GERMAN BOATS MUST PAY FINE

Vera Cruz, Mexico, June 1.—The Hamburg-American line steamships Ypiranga and Bavaria did not sail as expected, owing to the refusal of the American port authorities to accept a bond which would cover the fines imposed upon the two vessels for landing arms at Puerto Mexico for the Huerta administration. The fines imposed upon the two vessels amount to over 1,000,000 pesos. The amount assessed against the Ypiranga is $34,625 pesos. The captains of the two vessels were anxious to get away and the agents were insistent that the bond be accepted, but the authorities declared that this could not be done on Sunday.

For scaling fish a new wire brush has been invented, the wires being surrounded by a guard to prevent the scales flying in all directions.

in which is Mexico City. Zubaran Capmany, who now is representing Carranza in Washington, is to be one of the cabinet, and later will be named as ambassador to the United States. Senor Luis Cabrera is to be minister of foreign relations, and has been ordered by Carranza to proceed to Saltillo at once. He is now in New York. Felipe Angeles is to be retained in the cabinet, probably as minister of war, and Ferdinand I. Calderon, who now is at the head of the Liberal party in Mexico, is to be given a cabinet portfolio.

REBELS MUST COME ACROSS

Washington, June 1.—Officials of the administration, though in communication with American representatives at the peace conference, declined to discuss their attitude as to reception of representatives of Carranza in the mediation negotiations, but it was again declared that this government still was firmly of the mind that no protocol which would outline terms of settlement of the general political affairs of Mexico should be signed until agents of General Carranza had been given an opportunity to participate in the deliberations.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan held a brief conference, and it is understood communications bearing on the late developments at Niagara Falls were forwarded to Commissioners Lamar and Lehman. Like all other communications of this character, they were held strictly in confidence. The belief in official circles here, however, was that the publication of the Carranza note to the South American envoys and the answer of the mediators thereto might be delayed for some days, pending further efforts on the part of this government to bring influence to bear which would assure some sort of representation at Niagara Falls of the Constitutional movement.

MARINES DROWNED

Mexico City, June 1.—Several American marines from the cruiser Albany were drowned while they were attempting to land in the port of Arista, state of Oaxaca. The boat in which they were attempting to reach the shore was caught in a heavy sea and sank. Mexicans put out from the shore and rescued most of the men, but several were lost. Those who were rescued were sent under a heavy guard to Salina Cruz, where they were released and delivered to the commander of the Albany.

DRINK AND SHOOT

Torreón, Mexico, June 1.—When the food did not suit him, General Mariano Severin, chief of the rebel artillery in Villa's army, shot up a restaurant here conducted by an American negro named Lewis. He wanted to shoot Lewis, but the negro fled. The incident caused a riot which required the presence of a special detail of troops to put it down. General Severin, it is claimed, had been drinking heavily. The restaurant was wrecked.

DEATH WINS

Canton, O., June 1.—Joseph Willis, 20, a young pharmacist, was drowned at Meyers Lake, an amusement park here, when a canoe in which he was riding capsized. Joseph Fitzgerald, 15, also was in the boat when it turned over. Willis, although unable to swim, assisted the younger boy to stay above the water until several other canoes in the vicinity could dart to the rescue. Willis then sank.

FIREMEN HURT

Akron, O., June 1.—The plant of the Caruthers-Terry Preserving company was destroyed by fire with a loss of $100,000. The origin is not known. Captain Austin Stair, Anthony Weerers and Charles Jost, firemen, fell through a window into the burning building and narrowly escaped death. They were only slightly injured.

BATHER DROWNS

Lancaster, O., June 1.—Boasting of his prowess as a swimmer to four young boys already in the water, Henry Foust, 22, was drowned when he jumped fully clothed into the Hocking river, two miles south of Sugar Grove. The body was recovered by a rescue party two hours later.

SCIENTIST'S CLAIM

Florence, June 1.—SIGNOR UBI, the discoverer of the X and M rays, says collisions between vessels on account of fog can be made impossible by his F rays. He claims that a ship with his apparatus can determine the direction and distance within 13 miles of another ship, although the latter is invisible.

HATCHERY BURNS

Sandusky, O., June 1.—The Ohio state fish hatchery at Put-In-Bay was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The loss is estimated by Superintendent Frank Miller at $20,000. The last of the spring hatch of whitefish and bass was removed 10 days ago.

5 TRAINMEN ARE KILLED

Locomotive Jumps the Track and Turns Over.

Connellsville, Pa., June 1.—Five trainmen were killed and two perhaps fatally injured when a passenger locomotive on the Connellsville division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was derailed at Cooks Mills, east of here. The locomotive was running light. An extra freight crew had boarded the engine to ride down the line in order to relieve a crew whose working time had expired. In some unknown manner the engine jumped from the rails and the men were scalded.

The engine turned completely over. The dead: H. V. Hughes, engineer, Pittsburg; H. S. Lloyd, flagman, Connellsville; Guy W. Dean, brakeman, Cumberland; Harry Riser, engineer, South Cumberland; C. C. Eyster, conductor, Myersdale.

TURBULENT AGITATORS

Berkman and Others Attempt to Speak at Rockefeller's Home.

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 1.—Fifteen agitators are in jail and Andrew Berkman has been sent back to New York as the result of Berkman and others insisting on making public addresses.

After the arrest of Becky Edelson, Arthur Caron, Edward Plunkett, the Cornell graduate, the big Swede and eight others, Berkman, David Sullivan and 20 others arrived in Tarrytown and immediately started out to continue the fight for free speech in this village, which the agitator's chose to call John D. Rockefeller's town. Berkman's gang walked to Fountain square and one of the members got a box and started to talk. He was arrested. He subsequently promised to get out of town and was allowed to go.

In the meantime Sullivan and Berkman, who was accompanied by a girl known as "Helen of Troy," but who gave her name as Helen Harris, walked around the town followed by a crowd of 500. Berkman and Sullivan kept protesting to the police that they had the right to free speech and they returned to Fountain square and Berkman tried to talk again. The police rushed them and they were driven over into North Tarrytown. Sullivan, Velloccello and another man put up a fight and were arrested.

New York, June 1.—William English Walling, Socialist author, in an address in the Berkley theater denounced Morris Hilquit, national chairman of the Socialist party, before Bouck Whites congregation. He called upon Hilquit to get out of the party. Hilquit has been quoted as saying that such persons as Upton Sinclair and Bouck White ought to be put out of the Socialist party as punishment for "silent mourning" in front of the Standard Oil offices and the attempt to speak in the Calvary Baptist church, of which the Rockefellerers are members.

OUR NATIONAL GAME.

Baseball as Now Played Is Essentially American in Origin.

Some authorities trace baseball to an old English ball game called "rounders," which dated from the eighteenth century. "Rounders" was played in an open field marked out by a five sided figure, the points being called bases, first to fourth and home bases. The "feeder" (modern pitcher) stood in the middle of the pentagon; the batsman ran the bases and scored a run if he made the circuit without being put out, but he was retired if a hit ball was caught on the fly or on the first bounce or when he was struck out by having the ball thrown at him while running the bases.

"Rounders" was played in this country before the Revolutionary war and baseball possibly was an outgrowth of it, but if so it was a long time coming. The game as now played is essentially of American origin, through the different stages of two old cat, three old cat, four old cat, town ball and bull pen.

The Washington Baseball club, the first known, was formed in New York in 1843, and the first regular code of rules was drawn up in 1845 by the Knickerbocker Baseball club of New York. The first national association was organized in 1853, and the first convention of baseball financiers and managers was held in Philadelphia in 1867, about 500 organizations being represented.—Philadelphia Press.

A curious proof of how tenaciously paganism held its ground for some generations after the majority of the people had become Christians is found in a Gaelic version of the Lord's Prayer, which up to a very recent period existed in parts of Cork and Kerry. Instead of "Lead us not into temptation," "Na leig sinn a ndraoidheach" was said, meaning "Allow us not into Druidism."—London Times.

SAY COMMANDER WAS NOT ON DUTY

Members of Storstad's Crew Talk About Collision.

BOAT ARRIVES AT MONTREAL

Captain Declines to Make Statement Concerning the Disaster, Saying His Company Had Arranged to Do That—Vessel Detained Under a Writ Claiming Heavy Damages. Extent of Her Injuries.

Montreal, June 1.—With the Norwegian flag flying half-mast at her stern the collier Storstad came into port under her own steam. She was badly damaged about the bows, but so far as could be seen this did not extend to more than 20 feet from the stem. That the impact with the Empress of Ireland had been terrific was evident by the way the vessel's stem was twisted to port, the hawser pole completely smashed, plates cracked, rivets twisted or missing, while the heavy anchor had evidently been driven back several feet into the bows.

In anticipation of the arrival of the collier, W. Simpson Walker, registrar of the admiralty court, was instructed by solicitors for the Canadian Pacific railroad to issue documents for the attachment of the Storstad for damages by collision to the extent of $1,000,000. This amount can be further augmented. The warrant was executed by Acting Deputy Sheriff Marston. It was nailed to the mast, accompanied by a summons. The vessel can not be moved without the deposit of bail. Neither the captain or officers made any statement.

Captain Anderson said he could make no statement as the officials of the Dominion Coal company, the charterers of the boat, had arranged to do that. It was declared by seamen who were persuaded to tell something of the collision, though they had been warned by their officers not to talk to newspaper men, that Captain Anderson was off duty at the time of the accident, that the ship had been ordered astern before it struck the Empress a glancing blow, and that 350 people were saved by the crew of the Storstad.

G. Staunton, one of the executives of the marine department of the Canadian Pacific, said: "Captain Kendall has been exonerated by the Canadian Pacific railway for any blame connected with the disaster." When W. B. Webber, general agent of the line, heard of this remark, he insisted that the officials of the company had made no statement, and that it was not possible that the company could have exonerated anyone. He said that Captain Kendall had not made a statement to any official of the company.

957 DEAD

Quebec, June 1.—The British flag was at half-staff and all Quebec was in mourning when the funeral ship Lady Grey, escorted by the cruiser Essex, arrived with 188 who died in the sinking of the Empress of Ireland, when she was rammed by the Norwegian collier Storstad. Upon many of the crude coffins was written, "Do not shed tears over me," but thousands wept as the dead were carried to the morgue pier.

The awfulness of the tragedy of the St. Lawrence river was keenly realized when it was seen that many of the bodies were mutilated, bruised or gashed. There is a story that women were stabbed. That may be false, but the dead carry dreadful marks. Twenty-five of the bodies were those of babies. Twenty-one bodies were identified and left at Rimouski, so that up to this hour only 201 have been recovered out of 957 lost.

Robert V. Crellin, a miner from British Columbia, who grabbed Florence Barbour, 8-year-old daughter of Sabine Barbour, after the collision and swam for 10 minutes with the child on his back, went to the pier to look for the body of the mother and her daughter Evelyn, 3. He found and identified the body of Mrs. Barbour, but looked in vain for the baby.

BARBER PAINTS A MASTERPIECE

By Associated Press.

London, June 1.—Among the artists who had their pictures accepted for the Royal Academy is Frank Cowley, a village barber. His picture is hung on the line, the ambition of every artist, and not "skied" or "cornered" as happens to be the great majority of pictures.

Mr. Cowley took to painting before he began to shave the inhabitants of Hadlow Kent for a living, and his academy picture was painted in six hours. "I worked on it," he said, "about eight years ago, and in two sittings, between five and eight in the morning, had completed it."

The picture is a green and grey scheme, showing a smiling countryside, with a girl and two white goats standing near a tree. Five times previously Mr. Cowley has sent pictures to the Academy. Thrice he has been rejected, while on the other two occasions he was among those whose work was "crowded out."

He is entirely self-taught, and only recently took first lessons in technique. Barbering, he explains, is an annoyance.

"But I can't run the old trade down," he added, "for it has been a good friend to me. Barbering gave me a splendid opportunity of studying types of faces, which I used in my pictures. And, besides, I sold a good many to customers for a few shillings."

Mr. Cowley, who is still in his thirties, prefers to regard himself primarily as an animal painter, and he has the use of a private zoo in Kent for his models.

A Zoological Question.

The director of the zoological gardens was on his vacation. He received a note from his chief assistant, which closed thus: "The chimpanzee seems to be pining for a companion. What shall we do until you return?"—St. Louis Republic.

OUR WORD "GARDEN."

In the Old Anglo-Saxon It Meant Private Inclosed Land.

We speak so freely and often of a "garden," assuming that there is some well defined common use of that word even among the authorities on gardening subjects. But the fact is that it has reached mighty elastic limits in their writings and speech and can be taken to mean anything from the enormous private parks and estates to the tin can glories of a back yard.

The word garden is from the old Anglo-Saxon root "gyrden," meaning an inclosure. At that time, due to the uncertain character of community life, it was either inclosed within fortifications or left unprotected and exposed without. This private inclosed land was the garden of that time. That is the meaning of garden in the Song of Solomon.

Gradually the sense of the word has changed to cover those parts of the land devoted to the cultivation of plants either for pleasure or for use; thus, we have the vegetable or fruit garden, and on the other hand, the wall, water or rose garden, etc.

Liberty Hyde Bailey defines a garden as "the personal part of an estate, that area which is most intimately associated with the private life of the home."

Whatever the sense in which it is used, the word "garden" always succeeds in carrying with it an atmosphere of romance and beauty, which countless ages of use cannot dim.—Philadelphia Record.

HUMAN INSTINCT.

More Potent at Times Than Reason In Directing Our Actions.

That even in man instinct is sometimes stronger than reason is illustrated by these two cases:

There had been shipped on a Mississippi river steambot a box with a glass cover, containing a very active rattlesnake. Whenever any one approached the box the serpent would strike the cover. The owner of the reptile challenged any one to hold his finger on the glass and let the rattler strike at it. There was no danger, and it seemed an easy thing to do. First one and then another tried it, but when the snake gave its vicious spring the finger was invariably drawn back with a jerk. Instinct was stronger than reason and will combined.

A young man in Paris had lost his last sou at the gambling table. Not only was he without means, but he had lost a large sum belonging to his employer. He started for the Seine with the intention of drowning himself. On the way there was a great commotion, caused by the escape of a lion from a strolling menagerie. The animal came galloping down the street, and people fled in every direction.

Instantly the man who was seeking death climbed a lamp post and clung to the top of it, trembling in every limb. When the animal was captured and the danger was over he proceeded to the river and plunged in.—Washington Star.

The Last of Five Points.
The Five Points Mission House is to give way to the development of downtown New York, its site being needed for the proposed civic center and county courthouse. To the present generation its passing will doubtless be of less concern than the closing of the Astor House rotunda lunch counter, but for New Yorkers of older growth it possessed romantic associations both as a haven of righteousness in what was once the wickedest spot in New York, if not in the world, and because of its pioneer work of social reclamation.—New York World.

ATHLETICS LOSE 2 CLOSE GAMES

Two games which should have gone to Washington, were capped off by the Cincinnati Elmwoods Saturday and Sunday afternoons in a two days' tournament at Athletic park. Large crowds saw both games.

Saturday afternoon the Elmwoods won in a 6 to 5 game, principally through infield weakness of the Athletics, and only the sure and steady twirling of Reno prevented a massacre. In the eighth, with a chance to even up, the batting list weakened and the opportunity slipped through.

In Sunday's game the Athletics had the score cinched, but allowed the visitors a complete walkaway. Cotterill pitched a good game until the ninth, when his nervousness caused him to walk two men. An error put another batsman at first, filling the bases, and when Reno went in the batsman before him had three balls and one strike. The ball had started rolling and all the art of the old timer was useless. When the batsman walked, forcing in a run, the Athletics went to pieces, the visitors pushing over four men, bringing the former score of 4 to 3, favoring Washington, up to 7 to 4 in their own favor.

Next Sunday's game will be with the Bates Pirates, formerly the Shullman's of Columbus.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS PLAN FOR BIG FOURTH OF JULY PICNIC

Will be One of Feature Outing Events of the Season—Between 7,000 and 10,000 Persons Expected To Attend—Committee will Endeavor to Secure Services of Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, as Speaker.

Between seven and ten thousands, including persons from all parts of Fayette county and many from a distance, are expected to participate in the big Fourth of July picnic to be held under the auspices of the Fayette county Sunday schools and which, it is anticipated, will be one of the most elaborate outings of the summer in Washington.

At a recent meeting an executive committee was created which in turn appointed some ten or twelve auxiliary committees and all of these are now busily at work preparing for the picnic.

The committee on speakers will make an effort to secure for this day William Jennings Bryan to entertain Fayette countians with his matchless oratory.

The committee on grounds is considering several sites but it is probable that the fair grounds will be secured.

The promoters of the outing will consult the school superintendents, principals and teachers of the county with a view to securing the cooperation of all the schools and to induce them, if possible, to attend the picnic in representative bodies.

One of the chief features of the occasion will be an athletic tournament in the afternoon, including all manner of athletic events for trophies.

DIFFERENT TRIBES OF INDIANS WITH BLACK HILLS SHOWS

Genuine Aztec Indians from Old Mexico, tribes of Nootka Indians, known as the cliff dwellers from the faraway northwestern coast of Vancouver Island; Cheyennes, Comanches, Arapahoes, Sioux, Wichitas, Cherokees and Pawnees in paint and eagle feathers.

The younger generations are frequently heard to say: "They are not real Indians, see how they are painted." This is but another example of the educational powers of the show. It tends to show how little the children know of the first settlers of this country. It is the "real" Indian who does paint and very seldom the counterfeit. The Indians have various ways of indiscriminate face painting, but they are never seen in any of their dances or ceremonies without a liberal application of paint of various hues. Yellow with the Sioux is a favorite color and they put it on regardless of blend or effect. They consider that the more paint they get on their faces the more beautiful they are, and the warriors appear more anxious to be beautiful than do the squaws.

The many tribes in vari-colored paints, feathers and blankets, present a historical and picturesque gathering.

The Black Hills Wild West Shows will give two splendid exhibitions in Washington C. H. on Monday, June 1st.

INNOVATION IN CHURCH SERVICES

Rev. W. B. Gage of the First Presbyterian church, is proposing to create an innovation in summer church services by holding Sunday night services on the lawn, on the Hinde street side of the church, during June. The grounds will be lighted by electricity and the coolness of the out-door air will give an added attraction to the services.

BRIDGE DAMAGED

The long wooden trestle on the D. T. & I. at Pecks, near Waverly, was badly damaged by fire, Sunday, and it was necessary to send a special train to the scene to extinguish the blaze and make repairs.

"Dead" Soldier Sits Up.
One of the men of the First royal Scots fusiliers, who reached Southampton recently from South Africa, was Private McDevet, who, though in the prime of life, has snow white hair. He had a narrow escape from being buried alive in India. After an attack of fever he was pronounced to be dead and was placed on a slab in the mortuary to await burial. Two hours later the sentry outside heard knocking from within. He opened the door and was startled to see McDevet sitting up. The experience turned McDevet's hair white. The sentry was driven mad by the shock and died.—London Mail.

TRAGIC BRAVERY.

Sublime Act of a Hero Who Went to a Watery Grave.

In the chapel at Glenalmond school in Perthshire, Scotland, there is a marble slab with this stirring story recorded upon it:
There was once in the school a pupil named Alexander Cumine Russell, who became an officer in the Seventy-fourth highlanders when only a lad of seventeen. In connection with the memorable loss of the Birkenhead he won immortal glory. The troopship struck upon a rock; the soldiers were formed in ranks upon the deck to die; the women and children were being saved in boats.

Russell was ordered into one of the boats to command it, and a little way off he watched with dimmed eyes the doomed ship. When she went down he saw creatures of the deep contending for his beloved comrades. Then he saw a sailor's form rise up close to the boat and a hand strive to grasp the side.

A woman in the craft called out in agony: "Save him! Oh, save him, sir! He is my husband," but there was no room for another, and the boat was laboring heavily as it was. Russell looked at the woman and then at her children, then at those beseeching eyes in the deep, and, rising in the stern, he plunged into the water and helped the sailor into what had been his own place. Then amid a chorus of "God bless you" from every one in the boat the brave young officer turned to meet his death.—Pearson's Weekly.

Boasted Too Soon.

When the old Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz was staying at Holkham with Thomas Coke, then commonly known as "king of Norfolk," he boasted one evening at dinner that no man had ever dared to shoot at him and that if any one had ever attempted such a thing he would have shot the man dead on the spot.

The next day at the court the grand duke suddenly felt a shower of shot peppering his legs and, turning round in a fury to find whence it proceeded, saw William Coke with a gun leveled in his direction.

"I've got another muzzle ready," said William coolly. "Will you shoot?"—From "The Life of Thomas Coke, Earl of Leicester."

What is understood to be the first picture ever taken of a "still" heart was produced at the Beloit hospital at Beloit, Wis., by Dr. William Hecker in demonstrations with an X ray. The picture was taken in one one-hundred-and-twentieth of a second by means of an impulse selector, with which the apparatus was equipped.—Washington Post.
